

Feeling "Run Down?"

Just suppose that right now you were talking to a physician.

YOU would have to confess to him that somehow you seem to tire very quickly nowadays; that your energy is gone and that now and then you feel jumpy and irritated.

"My dear man!" he would no doubt say, "look at the symptoms logically. Yours is a clear case of strained nerves. We need not go into how you got that way. The climate, hard and nervous work, late nights, they can all be to blame—but you want to know how to become your old self again. Why not start taking Sanatogen—it's really great stuff! It's made just for people like you, and I know from long experience that it will do you a lot of good. You have asked too much from your nerves, and with Sanatogen you replace the lost energy quickly."

Over 25,000 physicians are of the opinion that taking Sanatogen is the easy and logical way back to real health and vitality. Why not give Sanatogen a trial? Every chemist sells it. Start taking it now, then you will soon notice its remarkable influence on your health and vitality.

ALL READY FOR FAR EAST TROUBLE

A BATTALION AND FLEET STANDING BY

London, June 15. Questioned about the Troop and val movements in the Far East, the Foreign Secretary replied in the House of Commons that the routine measures for the protection of centres of British interest in the area involved in the present disturbed situation have been taken. These measures consist in holding in readiness at Hong Kong of a Battalion for possible reinforcement of British Garrison at Shanghai and in the formulation of plans for despatch in emergency of units of China Fleet to ports affected. Mr. Eden would not answer a question based on hypothesis of Sino-Japanese hostilities except to say that every effort would be made to keep the international settlement at Shanghai free of all hostilities.—British Wireless.

INTERNATIONAL PEACE CONGRESS

THE KING'S MESSAGE

London, June 15. A message from the King to the International Peace Congress at Cardiff attended by delegates from nearly every part of world and organised in connection with the Peace Society's 150 years old foundation was read at the opening session to-day.

His Majesty expressed the hope that the congress would help to promote the cause of International Peace, "which was so dear to His last Majesty King George the 5th and which His Majesty has no less sincerely at heart." The Lord President of the Council, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald who spoke and delivered a message from the Foreign Secretary in which Mr. Eden said that International Peace could be assured only by making a common desire of individuals to live at peace apart of national consciousness of every country.—British Wireless.

THE PEIPING INCIDENT

INVESTIGATIONS GOING ON

London, June 15. Reference was made at Commons question time to-day to the death of a Japanese Officer in Peking on May 28 in connection with which allegations have appeared incriminating soldiers belonging to the British Embassy Guard.

Recalling that the preliminary investigation set on foot by the British Embassy as soon as reports appeared in the local press had established there had been no British troops either on pass or on duty outside their own quarters at the time when the incident was stated to have taken place, the Foreign Secretary stated that following receipt of official notification from the Japanese Embassy, a British Military Court of enquiry was set up on June 1. Meanwhile when permission was requested for the body of the murdered man to be examined by a Doctor to His Majesty's Embassy, he was informed it had been cremated on May 29, that is on the day before Japanese note was handed in. The Court of enquiry effectively confirmed the result of the preliminary investigations.

The Japanese Embassy however subsequently submitted the testimony of a number of witnesses of Japanese or Korean extraction in support of the original Japanese allegation. These witnesses assert they have identified three members of the British Embassy Guard as being involved in certain disturbances which took place on night of the murder. Investigations are proceeding and witnesses mentioned are to be examined by the court of enquiry.—British Wireless.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS DEBATE

MANY QUESTIONS TO BE ASKED

London, June 15. There will be a debate in the House of Commons on Thursday on Foreign Affairs in which a statement will be made on the Government's policy in the present international situation.

Replying to a large number of questions in the House of Commons this afternoon all directed to obtain a definition of the Government's attitude in view of the discussions aroused by the Chancellor of the Exchequer's recent speech, Mr. Anthony Eden said the Government desired an early debate. "On that occasion I shall be prepared to state the views of His Majesty's Government as to the action which is to be taken collectively at meetings of the Council and Assembly of the League of Nations on June 28 and 30 respectively."

The Leader of the opposition then gave notice that the Labour party would ask for a debate on Thursday, and later the Prime Minister intimated that the Government would accept this request.—British Wireless.

THE PALESTINE SITUATION

NO STATEMENT IN COMMONS

London, June 15. The Colonial Secretary declined to make any statement in the House of Commons this afternoon on the causes of the recent unrest in Palestine, on the grounds that they would be among the matters for investigation by the proposed Royal Commission and in these circumstances it would be most improper for him to attempt to analyse them at this moment.

Replying to a supplementary question, Mr. Ormsby Gore declared emphatically the Commission would only be set up when law and order had been fully restored in Palestine. There were other supplementary questions which went unanswered, but the Colonial Secretary intervened to contradict "clearly and definitely" the incidental suggestion that Grand Mufti was paid a salary by the British Government.—British Wireless.

ROYAL AIR FORCE EXPANSION PROGRESS

Seventeen New Squadrons: 32 New Stations

A WEEK OF BRITISH FLYING NEW

Seventeen new squadrons—fourteen in the regular Service and three auxiliary—have been added to Britain's air strength under the terms of the plan of Royal Air Force expansion which was announced by the government in May, 1935. Fifty-four more units have to be added to bring the strength of the Metropolitan Air Force up to the 123 squadrons then proposed. A further extension to 129 squadrons, backed by full war reserves, was foreshadowed in the White Paper on Defence that was published early in March this year.

Bombing squadrons predominate among the units formed up to the present. Eleven of the new regular units and all three of the new auxiliary squadrons are armed with bombing aeroplanes, which indicates that the increase to the offensive power of the Service in the past year has been more than the actual number of new units would indicate at first consideration. Two squadrons are equipped with fighter aircraft and one is the first of the new general reconnaissance squadrons, seven of which flying twin-engined aeroplanes, will be employed on coastal patrol and reconnaissance at distances from the British coastline of up to several hundreds of miles.

Inevitably the formation of new squadrons has lagged somewhat behind the provision of new stations and schools. When the expansion scheme was decided an immense burden of organization was laid upon those among the Air Ministry and Service personnel who deal with the humdrum tasks of establishing aerodromes and laying-out buildings. Great progress has been made. Sites for no fewer than 32 new stations have been acquired, or are in course of acquisition, in addition to which accommodation for three new auxiliary units has been reserved at existing aerodromes. Official statements show that satisfactory progress is being maintained in the constructional work going on at the various stations. At two new Service flying schools—Turnhill and Montrose—pupils have already assembled and are going through the advanced course of instruction, following initial training at civilian schools, which leads directly to service with the squadrons.

ADDING TO PERSONNEL

Training of the additional pilots demanded by the expansion programme has obliged a big increase in school facilities. The number of Service flying training establishments has been augmented from six to 11, at all of which work is now in full swing. Initial training, during which new military pilots receive 50 hours of "dual" and solo flying, is now the task of 13 civilian schools. At the end of the first year of expansion more than 1,200 of the 2,000 new pilots required from civil life by March 31, 1937, had been accepted. Approximately 14,500 airmen and apprentices were entered in the same period of the total number of 23,500 required.

Rate of promotion in the commissioned ranks of the Service has been accelerated. Last week 30 promotions to the rank of squadron leader were announced, bringing the number of officers holding that rank up to 411, or about 100 more than there were before the expansion was begun. An exceptional temporary measure, reducing to three years the period served by a flying officer before he is promoted to flight lieutenant, will impose responsibilities of command on officers at a considerably earlier stage than formerly.

Completion of new aerodromes and buildings, delivery of larger numbers of new aeroplanes, and emergence from the flying schools of about 1,000 new pilots promise an early speeding-up of the rate of formation of new squadrons. Rather more than an average of one new squadron per week must be maintained if all of the 123 squadrons contemplated last May are to be formed by the end of the present financial year.

PEACE ON THE BORDER

"Air Control" over the frontier of India has again averted an outbreak that, in the absence of aeroplanes, might well have caused grave troubles. In June last year a party of military Scouts met with a hostile demonstration from Hassan Khel tribesmen of the Kalu valley, Waziristan, and arrested two of them who had threatened violence. Subsequently the Scouts were fired on and were forced to retreat.

A few days later the Political Agent for North Waziristan met representatives of the Hassan Khels, who declared that unless they were given new khassadars, the tribal guards or levies, who under the control of their own headmen exercise police duties on the border—and increased allowances in return for the use of their country by government forces, they would sever political connections with the British Raj. In consequence the strength of the Hassan Khel khassadars was suspended and most of the tribesmen emigrated to adjacent areas across the border in Afghanistan. Suspension of their privileges and the discomfort of winter in their temporary shelters led to the majority, though unrepentant, returning to their villages by November.

In the meantime the tribesmen had continued to perpetrate acts of defiance, and eventually the government warned them that further acts of the kind would be met by punitive action. On December 8 nine aeroplanes demonstrated over the area. Printed notices warning the inhabitants of the government's intention were dropped. Since then, no further offences have been committed, and after a lapse of more than four months there is hope that peace is restored. Expenditure involved was the cost of fuel and oil for the flying and the cost of printing the warning notices. Not a bomb was dropped, nor a bullet fired from an aeroplane machine gun.

GROWTH OF BRITAIN'S HOME AIRWAYS

Railway Air Services, the company which combines Imperial Airways and the four great British railway groups in exploitation of some air routes, plans an increase this summer of more than 50 per cent. over the route mileage operated last year. Services to the more popular holiday resorts will be greatly increased in frequency.

New routes will be opened. Three will serve holiday traffic between the Isle of Man and Scotland and the north of England. Two will link Bristol and Cardiff across the Bristol Channel with Weston-super-Mare. Another will link Cardiff, Weston-super-Mare, Southampton and the Isle of Wight. On some routes there will be as many as six services daily in each direction. In the south, services between the London area and the Isle of Wight will use the new aerodrome at Gatwick (London South) which is linked directly by electric train with the London railway terminus Victoria. Trains will be available every half-hour, reaching London in 35 minutes. Wherever possible interlocking arrangements between air and rail services will be made.

Working augmented services demands that the operating fleet be doubled in number and capacity. About sixteen aeroplanes will be employed, including four de Havilland D.H.88 four-engined biplanes. Two of these machines will be the new D.H.88 model introduced this year, and equipped with special Gipsy-Six engines and control cable-pitch, airscrews. Flying at

SOMERSET'S GOOD LEAD

INDIAN BATSMEN IN TROUBLE

London, May 28. Although Captain C. K. Nayudu played two splendid innings at Taunton All-India were all out in their first innings against Somerset for 228, and they had to follow on 268 runs behind. At the close of play, with two wickets down, they still needed 142 runs to avoid defeat in an innings. Nayudu, who made 73 in the first innings, had again passed his 50, and was still in at the close. For the first time the Indians were favoured by really bright, hot weather, but they failed to find their best batting form. They had scored 24 without loss after fielding all day on Saturday, and Hindlekar again batted with skill. Altogether he was, at the wicket two hours and 20 minutes in scoring 46 out of 115. He was missed at point off, Andrews and generally found the ball difficult to get away.

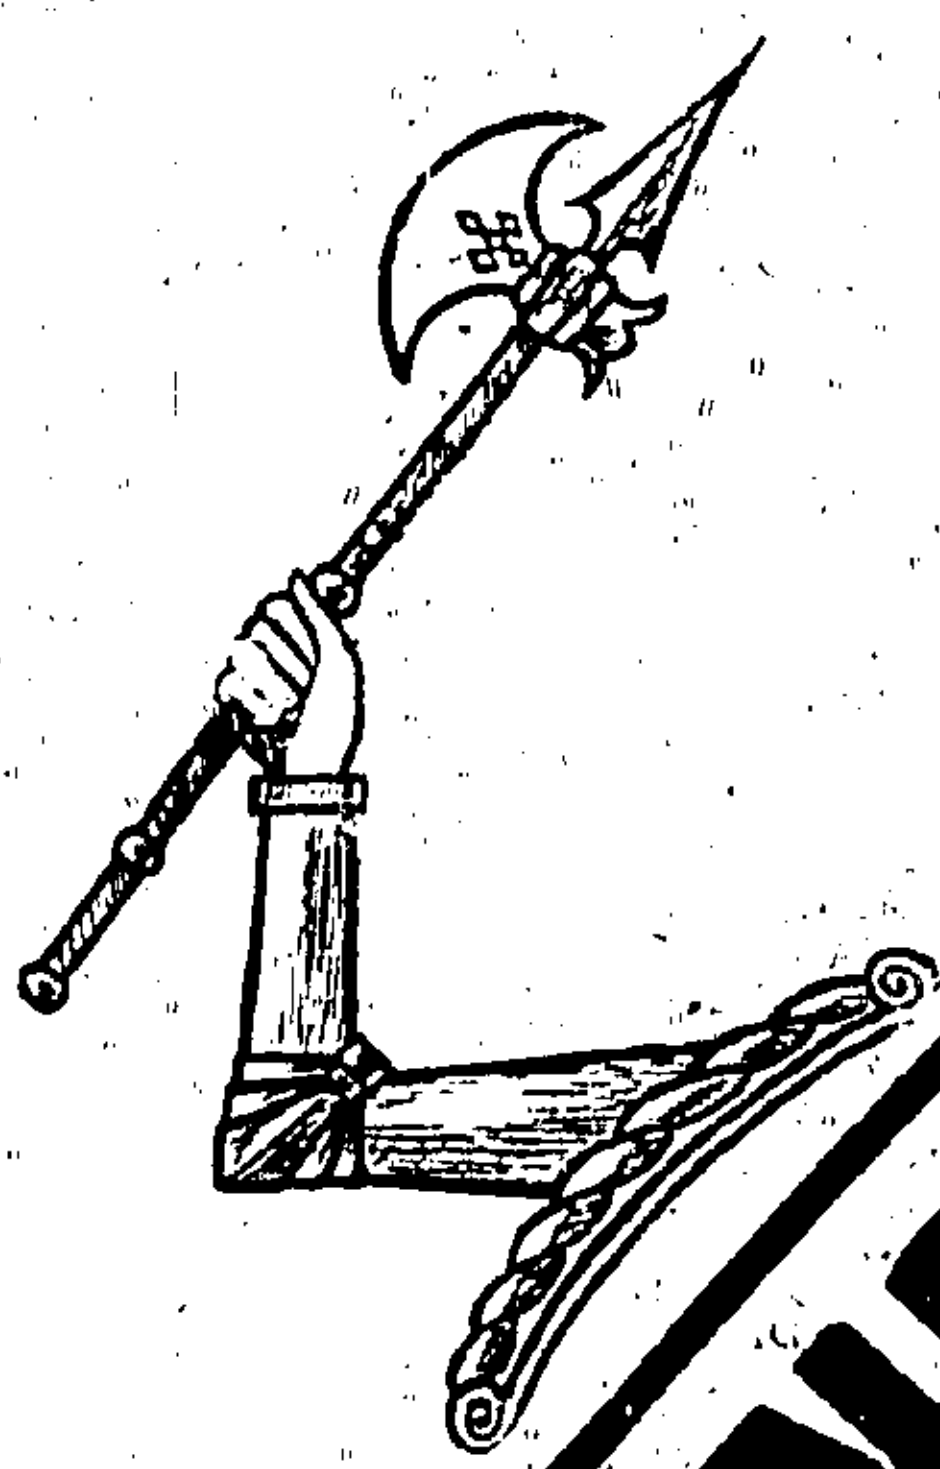

NAYUDU IN FORM

Gimblett bowled his first 10 overs for five runs and Mushtaq Ali's wicket. Merchant hesitated about a run and so lost his wicket, but Nayudu showed such freedom that there seemed a fair prospect of a good total being reached. Until Hawkins came on with his right-arm slow, Hindlekar then attempted to pull a full-pitch and was bowled.

A sad collapse followed. In the course of 12 balls Hawkins took four wickets for four runs and there was no real recovery. Nayudu, besides hitting Hazell over the square-leg boundary, brought off many good drives and there were nine 4's in his dashing display, which ended when Ingle brought off a great catch at cover-point. Nayudu got his 73 runs in 95 minutes.

When they followed on, 288 behind, Wellard, who was previously ineffective, bowled Hindlekar with six runs on the board. Hawkins worried Mushtaq Ali and soon claimed a fourth victim leg-before-wicket. Much better batting followed when Nayudu joined Merchant. Although the bowling was steady, Merchant never seemed to be in trouble, and he made several clever strokes to leg. Nayudu, as usual, went out to the pitch of the ball and brought off many powerful drives, one from Hazell reaching the top of the pavilion. Hawkins lost his length and was heavily punished, and each batsman completed his 50. Altogether this third wicket stand added 85 runs in 80 minutes.

their optimum operational height of 7,000 feet, these aircraft cruise at 155 to 180 miles an hour, and big reductions in time-table schedules will be possible on the longer routes over which the company's four-engined aircraft fly. The remainder of the fleet will consist in Dragon-Rapide twin-engined biplanes and the slightly smaller and less speedy Dragons. In all the fleet this year more than a million miles, as compared with 600,000 miles last year. Evidently the railway companies do not intend to be left behind in the development of high-speed transport.

Shanghai.

The Yangtze Finance Company, Ltd., held its sixth annual general meeting of shareholders following. There were present: Messrs. F. R. Davey (chairman), H. E. Arnold, K. P. Chen, Chun, Bing-him, Hsu Singloh, Li Ming, P. W. Massey, W. R. McBain, C. J. Meager (directors), and other shareholders, representing in all 232,688 shares. The notice convening the meeting and the auditors' report having been read, the Chairman said:—

You will see that the profit for the year amounts to $149,371.47, which, with the amount brought forward of $193,487.19 leaves a balance at the credit of profit and loss account of $342,858.66. Having regard to all circumstances, your directors do not feel justified in declaring any dividend. To do so would involve adding to the company's bank indebtedness, a course which, with the outlook as it is at present, and with rates of bank interest at present prevailing, does not commend itself. I am sure, to shareholders any more than to directors. At the same time, I would call your attention to the fact that bank indebtedness has been considerably reduced. For the year ending March 31, 1935, this amounted to Tls. 2,761,780.40 ($382,626.06). On March 31, 1934, it was just over two million dollars, and at March 31, 1935, approximately one and a quarter million dollars. At the close of the financial year we are now reviewing, it was only a little over $700,000.

This makes the way clear for resumption of payment of dividends when companies like the Shanghai Land Investment Co. and other concerns in which your company has large holdings are able to resume dividend payments themselves. I have dealt with this point and referred to the possible wisdom of companies conserving their resources in the remarks I have made at the meeting of the International Investment Trust Co., held earlier this afternoon, and I will not go over the same ground again. Shareholders, even if their interests are confined to only one of these two associated investment trust companies will have the opportunity of reading what I have said in this connection and my general remarks at the former meeting apply, if not wholly at all events in large part, to the affairs of your company.

BANK DEBTS REDUCED

I will, therefore, at this meeting confine myself to dealing with the accounts before you. Your will note that the expenses of your company have been reduced to a relatively small figure. The total for general charges and the fees of Messrs. Turner, Sturrock and Brown, your secretaries, together with auditors' fees and directors' fees amount now to only just over $27,000, an inconsiderable sum in relation to the paid-up capital of your company, which is over $7,250,000, and which holds and manages investments valued, even at current depreciated quotations, at nearly $5,000,000. In this connection it will be seen from the accounts that an appropriation of $327,874.47 has been made from reserve for the purpose of writing down investments, the value of which is considered doubtful, to nominal figures. This leaves a balance in reserve of $572,125.53. As I have stated, bank indebtedness has been reduced to a relatively small amount, and it is probable that, before the end of the current financial year, the amount will be still further substantially reduced. It will be noted that the larger part of the indebtedness, viz., $30,000, is in sterling. The conversion from dollars to sterling was done to save the difference in interest between 8 per cent. and 5 per cent, and your directors felt justified in making this conversion in view of the fact that they hold sterling investments exceeding this figure in value.

I may mention that reduction in bank indebtedness has been effected without in any single case disposing of any investments at a loss. The company has always been able to make substantial profits by dealing in securities and you will see that, even during what must have been one of the most difficult years in Shanghai's history—our financial year which ended on March 31 last—we were able to make a profit of $39,813.73 on sales of investments actually purchased during that period. This more than sufficed, by a sub-

A MEMORIAL

WOULD BE A GOOD IDEA

London, May 28.

The suggestion of Mr. E. L. Leeming, which was reported recently, that a worthy memorial to King George would be a new 240,000,000 trunk road from London to Glasgow at least stirs the imagination. He would have this magnificent highway carried over existing roads by bridges, and served by roads entering it at connections built to the "clover leaf" design or some other, which saves delay to swift through traffic. It would avoid all populous centres, and ribbon building on its margins would be prohibited. Yet so close would it go to the most densely populated areas that it would serve in a direct sense 80 per cent. of the people of Britain, and, since it would skirt some of the most hard hit parts of the country, its construction would afford welcome employment. It would, of course, know no speed-limit, and in appearance would have something of the amenity of a park way.

SPECIAL AMENITIES

It would have special fog lighting, double-track roads, and connections with national parks to be established in Dovedale and the Lake District, among other places. Had it, in short, existed in Dr. Johnson's day that much-resented remark about the noblest prospect a Scotsman sees being the high road that leads to England would at least have had some visible justification. Whether such a road is practicable is another matter. It would, like the present London-to-Glasgow road, traverse large areas where land is expensive. Mr. Leeming hopes that the owners, considering the road's memorial purpose, would accommodate it for little or nothing, but that is exceedingly doubtful. Again, what would be the attitude of the Traffic Commissioners and the Ministry of Transport, whose duty it is to equilibrate the claims of road and rail interests to a project that would so heavily put up the scales against the latter?

stantial margin, to pay the whole of the expenses of your company during the year.

LOSSES REGAINED

From the report which accompanies the statement of accounts, you will see it is stated that the anticipation of your directors expressed last year regarding the company's subsidiary, the Commercial Investment Co., Ltd., has been realized. All its capital losses have been regained and a dividend of 5 per cent. on the capital of $1,258,471.24 has been received, while additional substantial sums have been put to reserve and carried forward. In the remark appended to our balance sheet which is included to comply with the requirements of the Companies Ordinances of 1932, it will be noted that certain directors of this subsidiary company have received remuneration to the extent of $6,351 from the subsidiary company. As I am not one of the directors of the subsidiary company, I have no diffidence in stating that those fees have been well earned. The control of our subsidiary company involves a great deal of time and attention, frequent meeting and consultations, and the results achieved show how valuable their work has been.

No questions being asked, the following resolutions were put to the meeting and carried unanimously:—

"That the directors' report and audited statement of accounts for the year ended March 31, 1936, as presented, be adopted."—Proposed by the Chairman and seconded by Mr. Chun Bing-him.

"That the amount standing to the credit of profit and loss account be dealt with as recommended by the directors in their report."—Proposed by Mr. Li Ming and seconded by Mr. W. R. McBain.

"That Messrs. F. R. Davey, W. R. McBain, and Hsu Singloh be re-elected directors of the company."—Proposed by Mr. H. E. Arnold and seconded by Mr. C. J. Meager.

"That Messrs. Lowe, Bingham & Matthews be re-elected auditors to the company for the ensuing year, at a remuneration of $1,400."—Proposed by Mr. W. A. Hale and seconded by Mr. F. G. Harrison. (N.C.D.N.)

POLICE REPORT ON THE RECORD OF 1935

According to the report of the Commissioner of Police of the Metropolis for 1935, great difficulty is still experienced in dealing with badly-conducted or bogus clubs and the "more modern device for circumventing the law, known as the 'bottle party'."

Sir Philip Game, the Commissioner, comments that the enforcement of the laws dealing with drink and gambling presents many difficulties. The procedure is costly in time and money and the duty is demoralizing the police officers engaged on it.

"It has been abundantly proved by experience," Sir Philip says, "that under the existing law it is not practically possible for the police to do more than put a check on the most flagrant infringements and I am completely in agreement with Lord Mersey that legislation is essential."

"A proper system of registration of clubs is the first essential, but I doubt if this will produce the desired result unless the police are given some right of entry on suspicion, however strictly it may be safeguarded. The present need of inside observation in nearly every case before any action can be taken is unfair to the individual police officer, and the time occupied and the cost entailed tend to defeat the proper administration of the law."

During last year, proceedings for irregularities were taken against registered clubs in 119 cases, in 98 of which the clubs were struck off the register.

LESS CRIME

Dealing with crime, Sir Philip reports that the statistics for 1935 reveal "a position which may be regarded as fairly satisfactory in several respects." The number of indictable crimes showed an appreciable drop of 2,700 compared with the previous year, the figures being 80,336 against 83,036.

Numerically, he states, the great bulk of crime consists of small thefts. Out of about 73,000 cases of theft examined in 1935, in nearly one-third the value of the property stolen was under £1 and in well over two-thirds the value was less than £5.

"Broadly speaking," the report continues, "these petty thefts occur because they are easy. In other words, the opportunity frequently creates the criminal, and the criminal, once created, cannot easily be unmade."

"I suggest, therefore, that it is the clear duty of every citizen to take trouble not to give easy opportunities for crime by laxity in the protection of his possessions, and this applies to property of slight value even more than it does to the more spectacular possession. . . . It is evidently not generally realized that the thief's task can be made much more difficult and risky if the entrance doors of all houses and flats were fitted with good mortice locks."

Juvenile crime is becoming rather more serious. Out of 18,106 persons taken or given into custody for indictable crimes last year, 4,838, or 26.7 per cent., were under 17 years of age, and a further 2,519 (13.9 per cent.) were from 17 to 20 years of age. An analysis reveals the extent to which the young offenders work in "gangs." The age of 13 was the "peak" age for juvenile crime.

Sir Philip does not believe that the taking of finger-prints of juveniles is likely to do any harm.

FEWER ROAD DEATHS

The number of road deaths in the Metropolitan Police district was the lowest recorded since 1927, while, as compared with 1934, there was a reduction of 331 or 23.1 per cent.

The statistics for the second quarter of the year, when the general speed limit was in force "and was generally respected," showed that the number of fatalities caused by private cars was brought down by 50 per cent., as compared with the previous quarter.

"Unfortunately," Sir Philip continues, "the police efforts to enforce the general speed limit have not been supported by some of the Courts as well as might have been expected. On a number of occa-

NATIONAL COAL

RESOURCES AND DEVELOPMENTS

Nanking, June 4.

After three days' deliberations, the National Coal Industry Conference (Chuan-Kuo Mei-Yeh Hui-I), convened by the Ministry of Industry, was formally closed.

The final session was held under the chairmanship of Dr. Chou I-chun, Administrative Vice-Minister of Industry. 50 representatives of the Ministries of Industry, Finance and Railways, and coal mining companies were present.

With regard to the proposal of the Ministry of Industry for joint marketing of coal, it was decided to establish a Joint Office for the Coal Industry (Mei-Kwang-Yeh Lien-Ho Shih-Wu-So) at Shanghai within three months. Pending its inauguration, the National Mining Association (Chuan-Kuo Kwang-Lien-Hui) will serve for communicating with the various coal mining companies on measures for the joint marketing of coal.

Other proposals adopted, regarding coal transportation and taxation, are to be forwarded by the Ministry of Industry to the Ministries concerned for consideration.

DELEGATES THANKED

Following the session, the closing ceremony was held. Mr. Wu Ting-chang, Minister of Industry, presided. After thanking the delegates for their cooperation and reviewing the various resolutions adopted by the conference, he continued:

Firstly, it is the hope of the Government that the companies concerned will organize voluntarily with a view to promoting the development of the coal industry. The Government will merely guide the organized activities of the coal companies. In order to acquire a legal status, the latter should form a definite organization and register with the Government.

Secondly, while it is true that free trade is beneficial to industry, unnecessary losses incurred by excessive competition should be avoided. Though the coal companies are urged to organize, they would be well advised to refrain from organized efforts to put up the price of coal, as this will not only be harmful to domestic industry but will also be prohibited by the Government.

Thirdly, the enforcement of the various resolutions adopted by the conference will have to depend on the collaboration of the coal companies themselves.

A reception in honour of the delegates was subsequently given by the National Mining Association. (Chuan-Kuo Kwang-Yeh Lien-Ho-Hui)—Kuo Min.

SUPER MISS
ROUND BEATS
ANITA

London, May 23.

Smiling little Anita Lizana, Chilean tennis wonder, is still smiling. But she is disappointed.

In the Surbiton tennis finals yesterday she achieved a long-sought ambition when she met Miss Dorothy Lock, 1934 Wimbledon champion.

And Miss Round won 6-2, 6-3. But it was a super Miss Round. Never has Britain's joint No. 1 woman player, played better than this nor with more confidence.

Smashing drives on either hand, which skimmed the net and went deep into the corners, gave the Senorita no chance. She tried her favourite drop shot, but was beaten at her own game.

Miss Round's form was a revelation and a happy augury for Wimbledon and the Wightman Cup. Doubts about her fitness were completely dispelled.

It was no disgrace to be beaten, Senorita.

The men's finalists are H. G. N. Lee and C. E. Maltroy.

sions, cases in which drivers were summoned for overtaking police cars proceeding at the exact legal limit were dismissed under the Probation Act, with remarks that clearly indicated that the Bench felt that a margin over the legal limit might well have been allowed.

"In my view," he adds, "it would be quite wrong to encourage any general impression that all excesses can be overlooked."

A POUND A MINUTETHE ADVANTAGES OF CONCESSIONS

London, May 27.

The Postmaster-General gave some good news yesterday in reply to a question about radiotelephony. From the first day of July the rates for calls to Canada and the United States will be reduced. A talk with Montreal or New York, for instance, by day-time will be charged at the old night rate of twenty-eight, instead of forty, shillings a minute; and at any time between ten o'clock at night and ten o'clock in the morning, "Greenwich" time, and through the whole of Sunday a call to Montreal or New York, where the clock is some five hours behind Greenwich, will cost no more than a pound a minute.

THE REDUCTION

Not ten years ago, on January 1 1927, the day on which the radiotelephone service from London to New York was first opened to public use, and the Editor of a certain journal exchanged greetings with the proprietor of the "New York Times" and the Correspondent in New York dictated a message for publication, the cost was not one pound a minute but five. The reductions have been made possible by the increase in the use of the service. Commerce and friendship alike have snatched at all opportunities.

Last year temporary reductions in radiotelephone rates over the Empire were introduced "as a Silver Jubilee concession" during May. The number of calls increased by more than 70 per cent. In the following month the regular charge for night calls to Canada and the United States was reduced by nearly a third, and the rates all over the Empire were lowered. At Christmas came another temporary concession for day and night conversation with the countries of the Empire; it was completely successful. Experiments in the reduction of charges have all resulted in the expected increase of use which makes reduction a sound business measure.

About thirty years ago an American in London, impatient to greet his lady love, went into a District Messenger office and then there dispatched a boy to New York. The post was too commonplace; the telegraph too impersonal. To-day such a one would almost certainly be content to book a call—at twenty-eight shillings a minute if twenty shillings seemed unworthy—and talk to her and hear her very voice. And it would seem to him almost a matter of course. We have grown used to the marvel. In 1902 the dawn of radiotelegraphy awoke little public curiosity. Since then invention has raced ahead so far that we take the yet more marvellous radiotelephony for granted, and are complacently awaiting radiotelevision. And any reflections that may occur, as we ring off after an easy chat with Ontario or Cape-town, Wellington or Bombay, are not likely to mask the capital point—our determination to get these liberties as cheap as ever we can. His Majesty's Post-Master-General is the last man in the world likely to be under any illusion about gratitude and contentment. Every concession raises clamour for more; and his promised reduction of the radiotelephone

THE FREEDOM OF THE SCREENSHARP LOOK-OUT RECOMMENDED

London, May 28.

There is an increasing interest in this country in the film that deals with current events at home and abroad. Those who share it would do well to watch the operations of the British Board of Film Censors on news reels that report the widespread interest in the cause of peace. The Board's interference with a sequence in the "March of Time" film, to which a correspondent in the film industry calls attention to-day, is not the first of its kind. The attempt to stop the showing of the short film "The Peace of Britain" is in recent memory. In the present case cuts have been made in a film dealing with the work of the League of Nations and with Britain's attitude to the Italo-Abyssinian war. Portions recording the demand for the application of stronger sanctions and depicting the journey of British troops to the Mediterranean have been deleted.

"PERFECTLY RIDICULOUS"

Lord Cecil, who, with other members of the League of Nations Union, has seen both the cut and the uncut versions, describes the deletions as "perfectly ridiculous," and remarks that "the ways of censors are inscrutable." Inscrutable they are, and when, as of late, they tend to prevent the expression on the screen of an attitude towards life and international affairs widely held in this country dangerous too.

The Board is a private body, but it is understood to consult Government Departments when in doubt. The Foreign Office can hardly have been the inspiration of these cuts, for the film is American in origin, has already been shown in five thousand picture-houses in the United States, and will be issued in its original shape elsewhere than in Britain whatever the Board may say. The excisions are deemed good for the British film-goer. But a Board that acts in concert with a Government that freely uses the film for its own propaganda has a poor case for deciding what social causes shall be served by the films that come under its review; and its future activities in this field should be closely watched by those who are concerned about peace, about freedom of expression in the film, and about the practical value of the news reels that we see.

rates gives a first-rate opportunity for pressing him to reduce certain other charges in his Department. Major Tryon needs no telling which is the most desired, and the most likely, according to his own experience, to result in the increase of business which means a larger profit on the lower scale than on the higher.

"It may be cruel to tell you, but at the party last night your sister promised to become my wife. Will you forgive me for taking her away?"

"Forgive you? Why, man, that's what the party was for."

Willie: "Pa, what is a stump speaker?"

Pa: "A politician who pours banana oil on troubled voters."

FORGOTTEN FACES

"Forgotten Faces," a tense drama starring Herbert Marshall opens to-morrow at the Queen's Theatre. Gertrude Michael, Jane Rhodes, James Burke and Robert Cummings head the supporting cast.

"Forgotten Faces" is the story of an operator of a gambling house married to a former chorus girl. Gertrude Michael, who proves faithless when her husband discovers her in the arms of another man, he kills the intruder. Taking his baby girl he gives himself up to his friend, Burke, a police sergeant, who promises that the baby will be adopted by friends.

Years later, in prison, Marshall learns that his daughter now grown to womanhood, is to be married and that her mother, in desperate need of money, has threatened to blackmail her. He urges Burke to aid him in getting a parole. The parole is secured and a clever trick helps Marshall to change places with the butler in his daughter's house. It is here that he manages to frustrate his wife's plan and the manner in which he does so results in a driving climax.

Jane Rhodes, as Marshall's daughter, and Robert Cummings furnish the romance in the picture. Arthur Hohl, as cell-mate friend to Marshall, also has an important part in the development of the plot.

"MAGNIFICENT OBSESSION"

There are a million ideas in that name, most of them glamorous. Paris is the setting of several idyllic love scenes in the Universal picture, "Magnificent Obsession," showing at the King's Theatre to-day. The sweethearts are Irene Dunne and Robert Taylor. They swirl you off to Paris with them, so you can watch them making the picture and making love.

Follow them in one of those skittering, jittery little taxis that like the chariot of Mars old Dan Cupid in Greek make-up summoning young couples to romance. Well, there they are, Irene Dunne and Robert Taylor. Never mind the taxi driver. He never sees anything.

They are in Montmartre now, where there's light and gaiety, wine and laughter. Then, circling your eye on Irene and Bob, or they past the Place de l'Opera, they stop at the Cafe de Paix. Keep your eyes on Irene and Bob or they will lose you in the crowd. Their "magnificent obsession" is being in love. Now they swing through the Champs Elysees, past the Arc de Triomphe, out to the Bois de Boulogne.

What a night to be in Paris! What a night to be in love! A deep purple velvet dome of sky, rime of flowers and freshly cut grass. There's another elusive scent which romantic people believe is the perfume that surrounds true lovers.

These two are drinking the wine of life, sipping the nectar of the gods. Then, as they turn back to the city, taking a different route which curves along the banks of the Seine, drama seems to rise from the dark, rushing waters of the river. Drama that pulses, even as Paris throbs to human heartbeats. There's plenty of drama, as well as romance, in "Magnificent Obsession."

But wait a minute. People can't be running around all night, following two movie stars. They have to get to work early tomorrow morning. Let John Stahl pay off the taxi; he's the director of the picture.

Yes, sir, thinking you are in Paris is a "magnificent obsession."

SPECIAL AGENT

The sensational successor to "G Men," Warner Bros. "Special Agent" opened yesterday at the Queen's Theatre with George Brent and Bette Davis in the stellar roles. Revealing the inner workings of the U.S. Treasury Department to track down criminals whose wealth, political influence and cunning make them immune to local and state laws.

Brent in the role of a newspaper reporter falls in love with Bette Davis who has unwittingly secured a position as secretary to the king of crooks, Ricardo Cortez, the shrewd polished dictator of the powerful band of crooks. Between the lovers, however, they finally get the evidence which lands the "killers" behind bars. Henry O'Neill does a fine piece of work, as also does Joseph Crehan, and Robert Barrat. Others in the more important crook roles are Jack LaRue, Robert Strange, J. Carroll Nash, Joseph Sayers and William Davidson. William Keighley directed.

BEHIND THE SCREEN IN HOLLYWOOD

The Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences at its annual dinner in Hollywood recently voted Walt Disney "the award of merit" for having produced this outstanding cartoon of 1935. It was a Silly Symphony in Technicolor, and it had to do with the mischief stirred up by three kittens who get into a house, annoy the cook, and raise a riot on the piano keys.

This is the fourth successive year that the creator of the Mickey Mouse and Silly Symphony films has captured the "best cartoon" honours.

In 1932 he won with "Flowers and Trees."

In 1933 he won with "Three Little Pigs."

In 1934 he won with "The Tortoise and the Hare."

Mary Pickford summed it all up in 15 words. "There is only one Disney. He is the greatest producer in the motion picture industry."

For the first time since the founding of the Comedie Francaise in 1785, an actor from a country other than France has been invited to participate in a production of that famous theatrical organization. Charles Laughton, now making a film called "Lion of Mayfair," at the studios of Alexander Korda, to whom he is under contract, has received a bid to play in an act from Moliere's "Le medecin malgre lui."

Upon receiving the invitation, Laughton, made the following comment:

"I have never been so flattered in my life. It really is about as near the summit of my ambition as I can hope to get."

"Salaries of movie stars would be only an infinitesimal part of their incomes if one-tenth of one per cent of all the 'opportunities' they are offered in fan mail should really materialize," said Merle Oberon, star of the Samuel Goldwyn production "These Three" the other day.

"That's one of the really odd quirks of this picture business—the letters that folks send their favourite players inviting them to 'back' inventions or financial schemes and then sharing in the 'profits'."

"All of us love fan mail; it's the surest index or whether or not the public is conscious of us. And the 'opportunity' type provide us with a lot of chuckles."

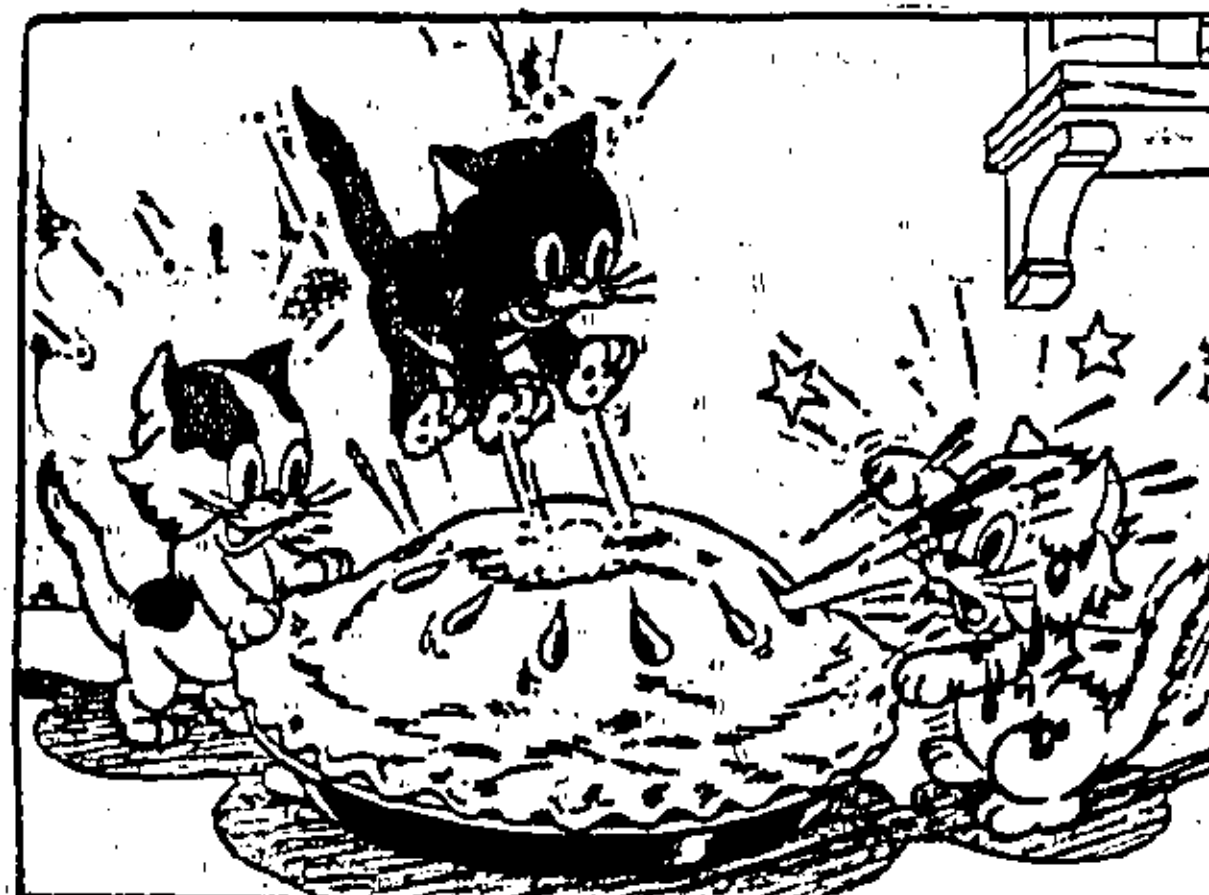

"I've had chances to 'go in' on no less than four hundred various inventions. Last week from England I received the best 'opportunity' of all."

"I have invented a new electric alarm clock," the letter read, "which I wish you would put on the market for me. If you do, I will call it 'The Oberon Wonder Clock.' This little instrument will turn on the lights, or shut off the radio; rings bells, has a chime alarm, and is almost human. If you will put this on the market for me we can share the profits and make a fortune."

"I didn't go in on it," said Merle, "but honest, sometimes some of those 'opportunities' are mighty tempting."

"For instance," she continued, "Mary Pickford received a letter the other day from a young man in Czechoslovakia who wrote that he had enough money to support himself, but not a wife. He promised Mary that if she provided funds he would get married and produce quadruplets. These he would send to Miss Pickford and she could have them to use in a picture."

"That," concluded Merle smilingly, "out-rides the promises of Hollywood's most confident producers."

A scene from the Walt Disney Silly Symphony, "Three Orphan Kittens."

"TWO FOR TO-NIGHT"

Ernest Cossart is one of Paramount's butler stand-bys. As soon as he finished his role in "Accent on Youth," he was pressed into service for the part of the butler in the Bing Crosby comedy with music, "Two for To-night," which comes to-day to the Star Theatre, with Joan Bennett, Mary Boland and Lynne Overman also in leading roles.

Like many actors who since have achieved stardom, Cossart made his debut in the theatre in a male domestic role. Charles Laughton and Herbert Marshall are two outstanding stars who started their careers "butting."

In "Two for To-night," Cossart is cast as a butler momentarily waiting for his uncle's death and subsequent inheritance so he can once again become a theatrical producer. The comedy traces the amusing adventures of a crooner mistaken for a playwright, Crosby, as one of Mary Boland's three musically inclined sons, accidentally meets Joan Bennett, secretary to Lynne Overman, stage impresario. She arranges a meeting between her boss and Bing. As he tries to explain why he is there, Overman thinks he is giving him an idea for a play and tells him to write it as a starring vehicle for his star and sweetheart, Thelma Todd. He takes a trip to Europe leaving Bing and his secretary, Miss Bennett, to finish the story.

Running out of ideas, Crosby takes Miss Todd to a night club to seek more material. After starting a free-for-all seizer water battle in the restaurant, he lands in jail, where he continues dictating the second act, and croons love songs to Miss Bennett in the meantime. Overman, suddenly returning from abroad, finds Bing and Miss Todd rehearsing a love scene, and fires him. Crosby involves himself in many ludicrous, laughable situations in the film, before he is reunited with the right girl.

THE THREE GODFATHERS

Every time Chester Morris plays in a picture he makes a new friend. He and Robert Montgomery became a veritable Damon and Pythias after "The Big House." He and Lionel Barrymore have been old friends since "The Cop-plehead."

But working in "The Three Godfathers," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's drama of the desert based on the famous Peter B. Kyne's story of the same name, and showing to-day to the Alhambra Theatre, brought about the oddest friendship of all. "Boots," a sorrel desert cowboy pony, is as a result of the location trip, one of the actor's greatest friends to-day.

Every day Morris brought the animal sugar. The horse followed him like a dog. Returned to the studios from the Mojave Desert, the friendship continued, for the horse had to come for studio sequences. Morris tried every way to buy the animal but its owner was adamant. But Morris, loyal to his friend, insists that he'll drive out to Mojave every now and then and pay "Boots" a visit.

It is this loyalty to his friends that makes Morris one of the best loved among the screen's colddies. He never forgets a name—or a friend. Grizzled Western extras on location are among them—men he has known and liked since his first days in pictures. Almost daily he hails with joy some old friend from his stage days, now come to pictures.

Morris, Lew's Stone, and Walter Brennan headed the cast that invaded the desert for the new picture, which Richard Boleslawski directed. Irene Hervey, Sidney Toler, Dorothy Tree, Roger Imhof, William Robertson and Robert Livingston are in the supporting cast.

IRENE DUNNE TO COLUMBIA

Irene Dunne, star in "Roberta," "Sweet Adeline" and "Magnificent Obsession," has been engaged by Columbia Pictures for the stellar role in "Theodora Goes Wild," based on the Mary McCarthy story, which the company has scheduled for production.

Starting on the stage, Miss Dunne was seen in prima donna roles in a number of important vehicles including "Sweetheart Time," "The Clinging Vine" and a revival of "Irene." She also had a season with the Metropolitan Opera Co.

Miss Dunne's first important screen role was in "Clarron" in

Some of her many film productions include "Back Street," "Silver Cord," "Consolation Marriage," "Symphony of Six Millions," "Bachelor Apartment," "Thirteen Women," "This Man Is Mine," "Stingaree," "Age of Innocence" and she is now completing "Showboat."

Mr. Robert Donat has accepted an invitation to play opposite Miss Sylvia Sydney, the American actress, in a Gaumont-British film based on Joseph Conrad's story "The Secret Agent." Mr. Alfred Hitchcock will direct the film, which will be released under the title of "Sabotage."

Hau Kam-oi, 47, a married woman living at Nos. 157 and 157 Queen's Road West, appeared before Mr. S. F. Balfour at the Central Court yesterday charged with the keeping of three unregistered mui tsai at the above address on June 7. The three girls were Li Ki alias Li Chuen aged 18, Chung Kwai-lan alias Tsol Shing aged 14 and Lau Ming alias Tsol Wong aged 9.

Mr. F. I. Zimmern appeared for the defendant and pleaded guilty to all three charges. Inspector H. W. Fraser of the S.C.A. for the prosecution said that a report was made to the No. 7 Police Station on June 7 by the second girl who complained that she was an unregistered mui tsai at No. 157 Queen's Road West. The girl said that she was sold by her father in the country for the sum of $120 Canton currency. Her work was that of sweeping the floors and cleaning the spittoons. She took her meals with the other mui tsai. On one occasion she was struck on the arm by one of the defendant's sons.

On the way to the house the Inspector was met by the eldest girl who also said that she had been struck with a broom. This girl was presented in the country five or six years ago for the sum of $125 Canton currency. The youngest girl said that she was presented some two or three years ago by her mother in the country as a security for the sum of $100 Canton currency. Her job was packing tea leaves and cleaning spittoons.

UNAWARE OF ORDINANCE

All three girls had to wait on the defendant's three daughters. They stated that they were mui tsai and that they had sufficient food and clothing. They all expressed the desire to return to their parents.

The defendant has two sons, four daughters and a husband, who was the master of a tea shop in Queen's Road West.

Mr. Zimmern pleaded that the defendant knew nothing of the mui tsai ordinance. The first girl was not related to the defendant but the other two were distant relatives of hers. That was not the time or place to speculate as to what would have been the girls' positions had they not been taken by the defendant. When the master was not at home they all hid their meals together.

Counsel asked that a lenient view be taken of the case and the infliction of a nominal fine would bring the defendant to realise that there is a mui tsai ordinance. The defendant denied that any one of the girls had ever been struck by any member of her family.

The defendant was fined $200 in the case of the first girl and $150 each in the case of the other two.

STRANGE BEHAVIOUR OF
AN INDIANSERIOUS CHARGE LEVIED

An Indian watchman, Gulam Mohamed, aged 40, appeared before Mr. W. Schofield yesterday at the Central Court charged with the unlawful possession of a Police positive .38 Colt revolver with 12 rounds of ammunition in Johnson Road on June 14.

Inspector A. E. Carey stated that the defendant was a watchman of the Wing On Bank and instead of going on duty at 2 a.m. went there at 1 a.m. and relieved the other Police watchman, taking over the revolver and ammunition. Soon after the change the defendant changed back to his civilian clothes and went to No. 148, Johnson Road which was occupied by a Siamese and his wife. The door was opened and the defendant half drew the gun from his pocket but was seized and the gun taken away from him. Police whistles were blown and he was arrested.

The defendant had apparently known the Siamese for some time previous and had been on visiting terms. He had been told to stop visiting and then defendant was alleged to have made certain immoral suggestions to the lady, who was employed in the Siamese Dance Hall.

His Worship was asked to take a serious view of the case as the

TRADE MARK
INFRINGEMENT

CASE ADJOURNED

Action against the Kwong Tung Drug Co., No. 186, Des Voeux Road Central, was taken by Chu Yung Chi, trading as the Chee Joong Hing firm at No. 20, Connaught Road West, in that they, the defendant firm, on April 17 did sell or did have in their possession for the purpose of sale or trade certain goods, namely, patent medicine to which a forged trade mark resembling trade mark No. 287 of 1929 was falsely applied.

The case was heard before Mr. S. F. Balfour at the Central Magistrate's Court yesterday.

Mr. F. X. d'Almada, S.M., was for the defendant firm, his nephew Leo d'Almada, Jnr., instructed by Mr. H. A. de B. Botelho was for the prosecution.

The case for the prosecution was that the complainant firm had heard rumours that another medicine bearing his trade mark was on the market. Complainant also noticed from his books that his sales were going down. He had circulars made and distributed to his clients in Canton and it was also printed in the newspaper.

On April 17 he gave his foki instructions to go to the Kwong Tung Drug Store and buy some of this medicine for him. The medicine was called "Po Chi Sui". The foki bought the medicine as ordered, in consequence of which the shop was raided and 546 bottles were found there.

Det.-Sergt. Guild entered the box and gave evidence of the raid and the seizure of the bottles. The complainant followed Sergt. Guild into the box and corroborated the case. After cross-examination by Mr. F. X. d'Almada, the case was adjourned until Thursday.

DOG LANDED WITHOUT
PERMITJAPANESE CAPTAIN
FINED

Captain Shunji Ito, of the s.s. Tatsuta Maru was yesterday summoned before Mr. E. Himsyworth at the Kowloon Magistracy for allowing a black and white fox terrier to be removed from his ship without having first obtained a permit from the Colonial Veterinary Surgeon, and with failing to obtain a permit to import or quarantine the animal.

Mr. A. E. Kinsey of the Cunard White Star Line, for whom the N.Y.K. are agents, pleaded guilty on behalf of Capt. Ito. A fine of $10 was imposed.

Sergeant Cochrane said that the dog belonged to Mrs. C. T. Ozario a passenger on board the Tatsuta Maru. She endeavoured to take it across the harbour but was stopped at the Kowloon Star Ferry wharf, on failing to produce the necessary permit. The animal was kept at the ferry wharf while she went to the C. V. Surgeon. The Police were then notified of the matter.

Mr. Kinsey admitted guilt under extenuating circumstances. The animal was apparently brought on board at Shanghai and the only person aware of its presence was the steward who failed to make a report to the captain. On the vessel it was prominently displayed that the captain should be notified.

ANOTHER SUMMONS

Mrs. Owens, of 169 Boundary Street was fined $5 for allowing a black and white bitch abroad without a muzzle or lead in Boundary Street on May 26. Defendant pleaded guilty but said that the dog did not belong to her and she was only looking after it for a friend on the day in question.

consequences might have been serious if defendant had not been disarmed.

When the defendant was asked if he had anything to say he replied that he would say nothing unless a certain piece of string, which was among his possessions, was given to him. This string was passed to him and he proceeded to place it around his own neck. Whatever his intentions were, they were frustrated by Inspector Carey who took the string away from him. Defendant then said that he had stomach aches and was hungry.

He was remanded for 24 hours for a medical examination.

COWARDLY
COOLIEWARNING ISSUED BY THE BENCH

Charged with assault causing grievous bodily harm, seven rickshaw coolies, Ng Tang, Ng Tak, Ng Yan, Ng Sze, Ng Sheung, Ng Ho, and Ng Tai, together with Ng Chung, unemployed were brought before Mr. S. F. Balfour at the Central Court yesterday.

The complainant was Hung Wai another rickshaw coolie.

Mr. S. Ng Quinn appeared for the defendants.

Mr. F. E. Nash for the complainant said that the first defendant and the complainant were partners who operated rickshaw No. 596, the defendant using it in the morning and the complainant in the afternoon. On June 9 sometime about 3 p.m. when the rickshaw should have been in the complainant's possession, the defendant committed a breach of the traffic regulations. This caused a quarrel which was smoothed over by the complainant's nephew who suggested that the matter be dealt with by the Rickshaw Guild. The Guild dealt with the matter and the first defendant had to apologise to the complainant and to make restitution.

On June 11 about 4 a.m. the complainant was starting for work when he was set upon by the defendants. He was badly beaten and left unconscious. He was found by the nephew and a friend. The assailants had, meanwhile gone back to No. 14 Staunton Street where they lived. Later on No. 14 was raided and out of 21 persons arrested the complainant identified these eight as his assailants.

The complainant went into the box and gave his story which was identical to that of the prosecution.

Defendants No. 2 to 8 were discharged, there being no case against them. The first defendant was convicted.

Mr. Balfour remarked that this was very serious and an example must be made. Sergt. Guild asked that a warning be given to the other coolies who were in court. The complainant had been one day in the hospital and he had been deprived of work since the day of his injuries. Mr. Balfour then issued a warning to the coolies in court that a recurrence of this sort of thing would be severely dealt with.

First defendant was then sentenced to three weeks and ordered to pay $5 amends falling which to serve another week.

IN SUMMARY COURT

Claiming $154 damages, Mrs. S. M. Santos, an elderly Portuguese woman, of Wongnei-cheong Road, brought an action against Lee Shing-yim before the Acting Puisne Judge (Mr. Justice Williams) in the Summary Court yesterday.

Mrs. Santos claimed that Lee was guilty of negligence when driving a motorcar on December 28 and had knocked her down, causing injuries to the foot and back.

Mrs. Santos said in evidence that on December 28 she alighted from a city-bound bus in Wanchai Road and before crossing the road saw another bus coming in the opposite direction. While waiting for it to pass Lee's car knocked her down.

Lee drove her home, she said, and in the course of conversation admitted negligence saying that he had not sounded his horn as he was trying to apply the brakes. Mrs. Santos denied that she had been negligent in not keeping a proper look out for approaching traffic.

To Mr. Mackinlay Mrs. Santos denied she was walking across the road when she was struck.

The hearing was adjourned to 11.30 a.m. to-day.

Mr. M. A. da Silva appeared for plaintiff and Mr. W. A. Mackinlay for defendant.

Two attempts to travel on the Yau-mat Ferry without paying the legal fare had their sequels in the Central Court yesterday. Wong So-tsing, 17, a female student and Chan Yee, 45, a coolie appeared before Mr. S. F. Balfour.

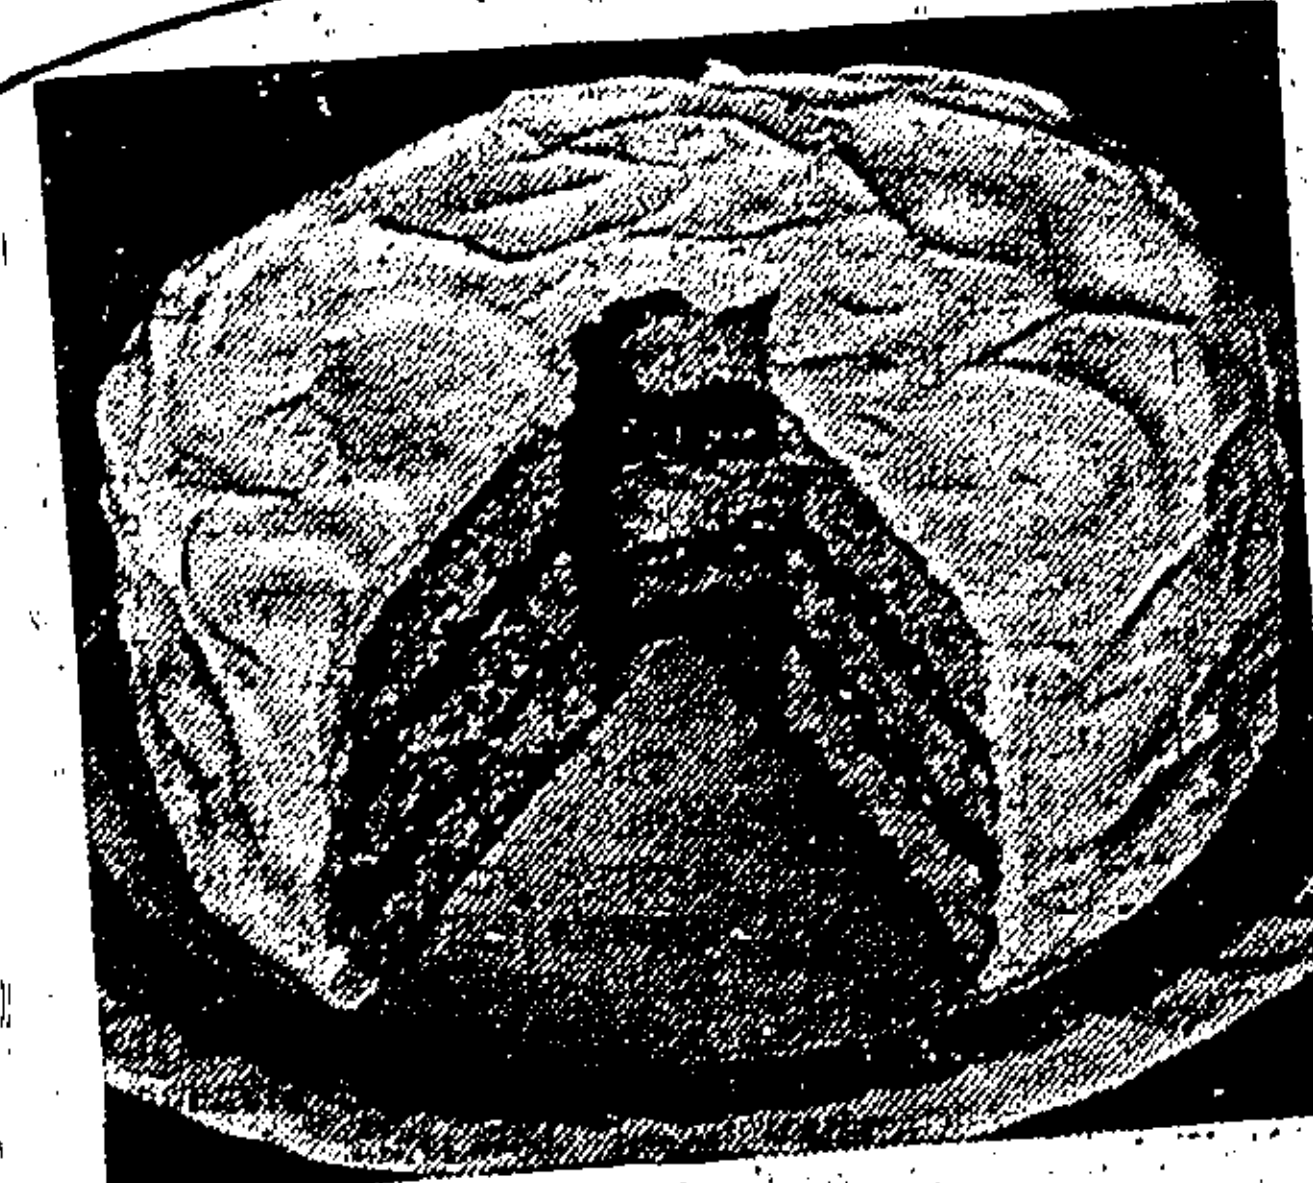

Inspector A. Black appeared for the company.

Sub-Inspector Johnson for the Police said that Wong So-tsing told the ticket collector that she had a monthly ticket and gave the name of another ticket holder, who was a friend of hers. She was fined $20.

Chan Yee boarded the ferry during some confusion which was caused by a young woman jumping overboard. He was fined $10 or ten days.

MOTORS CUT INTO PEAK TRAMS

Traffic Receipts Lowest
For 14 Years

ECONOMIES OBSERVED

Inroads made by motor traffic into the earnings of the peak trams was mentioned by Mr. D. C. Clark (chairman) when he presided at the annual meeting of the Peak Tramways Company, Ltd. yesterday. Traffic receipts were the lowest since 1922, he said.

A dividend of five per cent. was announced by the Chairman, who stated that rigid economies were being observed in administration.

DIVIDEND ANNOUNCED

The Chairman said:—

I regret to come before you with such a comparatively poor account, but when you consider the number of residents who now make use of motor cars for transportation you will not be surprised to note the large falling off of $31,817.92 in our traffic receipts, which are the lowest since 1922.

Profit for the year's working is $24,933.22, a drop of over $10,000 on the previous year. Numerous economies have been effected, as a perusal of the profit and loss account will show.

Electrical power shows a saving of over $2,000, partly due to a curtailment of the time table and also to the reduced rate charged for power by the Hong Kong Electric Co.

In maintenance, there is a saving of over $4,000. This is accounted for by the longer life of the wire ropes have given lately. This saving cannot be necessarily considered as permanent as no two ropes behave alike. We have at present two new ropes in stock which were purchased when exchange was over 2/- and so, unless anything unforeseen occurs, maintenance account should not be high for the current year.

Salaries and wages show a decrease of over $13,000, and this should show a further small decrease during the current year.

NEW APARTMENTS

Rents from the new apartments at St. John's Place were collectable only for the last two months of the financial year. The present year's accounts will benefit for the full period.

These studio apartments—a type of flat new to Hong Kong—proved immediately popular and have been fully let from completion at rentals giving a fair return on the capital outlay.

You will note the balance sheet has been presented in a different form.

Instead of building up reserve, your directors decided, with the auditors' approval, to write down assets as near as possible to their present day value by transferring the whole of the reserve for renewals and depreciation $90,476.72 and by taking $120,000 from the general reserve. I trust this transfer will meet with your approval.

Reserve for passages and leave pay.—You will note this account has been depleted by $13,167.95 during the year. The greater part of this amount is made up by cost of passage, leave pay and bonus to the late superintendent who on resigning his position was granted six months leave and a retiring bonus of $500 in consideration of his 14 years service.

PROFITS ALLOCATION

I do not think there is any other item that calls for special mention and I now formally propose that the report and statement of accounts as presented be adopted and that the following allocation of profits be passed:—

Pay a dividend of 50 cents a share on 25,000 shares	$12,500.
Pay a dividend of 25 cents a share on 50,000 shares	12,500.
Carry forward	14,080.
	$39,080.

The proposition was seconded by Mr. A. H. Potts and agreed to unanimously.

DIRECTORS RE-ELECTED

Mr. Clark proposed the re-election of Sir Robert Ho Tung and Messrs. J. Scott Harston, L. Kadoorie, M. T. Johnson and D. L. Newbelling as directors. This was seconded by Mr. P. C. Potts and carried unanimously.

On the proposal of Mr. J. D. Humphreys, seconded by Mr. W. C. Lee, Messrs. Lowe, Bingham and Matthews and Messrs. Linstead and Davis were re-appointed auditors.

Those present were Messrs. D. E. Clark (chairman), M. T. Johnson, L. Kadoorie, J. Scott Harston, D. L. Newbelling (directors); J. E. Jupp (acting secretary), and A. H. Potts, P. C. Potts, J. D. Humphreys and W. C. Lee (shareholders).

IMPRESSIVE TURN-OUT AT PARADE REHEARSAL

An impressive and smart turn-out of His Majesty's Troops and Volunteers was witnessed yesterday evening at the Race Course, when in preparation for the King's Birthday Parade a full dress rehearsal was held.

Early in the afternoon complements of men from the various units comprising the Royal Navy, Army, Naval Volunteers, Volunteers, the Police, and the St. John Ambulance Brigade wended their way to the race course, and their smart military precision attracted no little interest among the local residents, both foreign and Chinese.

At the Race Course itself there was a large concourse of spectators to watch the rehearsal and the men marching inside the course to the strains of the martial music supplied by the Massed Bands under the baton of Bandmaster A. B. Yule (East Lancashire Regiment) created a deep impression as to the strength of the fighting forces.

Capt. W. J. R. Cragg, A.D.C., to H. E. the Governor, Sir Andrew Caldecott was present and took the salute, while a mounted party which included the A.D.C. to the G.O.C. Col. Harrison, G.S.O. (1), Major Debb, G.S.O. (2) and Brigadier Seth-Smith inspected the ranks.

MORE MONEY NEEDED

Protection Of Children's Society

GOOD WORK BEING DONE

Nearly three thousand people visited the office of the Society for the Protection of Children during May, seeking help, while the Society's Inspector made 547 visits to homes during the period. Reference to these figures was made at the monthly meeting of the Executive Committee of the Society held on Monday evening, when the Chairman, Mr. R. H. Kotewall, stated that they showed the extent of the work done on behalf of the poor and sick by the Society.

It was also reported that 135 new cases were dealt with during the month, the total number of cases under supervision at the end of May being 847. The average income per head per month of the families assisted, was $1.87, compared with $1.71 in April, $1.66 in March, and $1.49 in February.

The financial report showed that during May expenditure exceeded income by $936.01, and it was stated that the present position indicated that a sum of $3,000 would be needed to avoid a deficit during the financial year ending on October 31 next. It was stated that steps were being taken to raise further funds from the Chinese community.

It was reported that the Dairy Farm, Ice and Cold Storage Co., Ltd., had generously offered to supply meat-bones for the purpose of making soup for mothers and children aided by the Society, and that the offer had been accepted with grateful thanks.

Prior to the commencement of business, members of the Committee stood in silence as a tribute of respect to the memory of the late Mr. Kwok Siu-lau, who was a life member of the Society and a member of its General Committee. (Contributed.)

EXTRADITION PROCEEDING

THIRD FUGITIVE'S EVIDENCE

The evidence of the third fugitive, Wu Tai-hoi was taken yesterday before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Court in the extradition case wherein four men are charged with conspiring to the attempted murder of Marshal Chiang Kai-shek and Mr. Wang Ching-wei in Shanghai, which attempt took place on November 1, 1931.

Mr. Peter Sin appeared for the four defendants who were Yu Lap-lui, Chau Sai-ping, Wu Tai-hoi and Cheung Chi-nan. Mr. D. Strellett was for the prosecution.

After a short history of his movements prior to his coming to Hong Kong, witness stated that he was employed by Cheng Yick-kin on October 17 as a cook at a wage of $12 a month. On November 22 he was instructed by his master to take a handbag to No. 92, Robinson Road and there wait for him. Witness was arrested at 4.30 p.m.

He denied knowing Wong Yansan, Wong Ah-chui, Wah Hak-chee or Suen Fung-ming. He had not suggested the using of bombs in the outrage nor had he conspired to murder Marshal Chiang Kai-shek or Mr. Wang Ching-wei.

Cross-examined by Mr. Strellett witness said that he thought that the documents in the attaché case were quite innocent ones.

After further cross-examination the case was adjourned until today.

Reader, Coy. Officer R.A.S.C., Major E. C. B. Shannon, R.I.A.S.C., Commanding the Hong Kong Mule Corps, Lt.-Col. H. B. L. A contingent from the H.I.M. was also present.

PEEPS INTO PAST

Rotarians Hear Of Early
Hong Kong History

FATHER FINN'S TALK

Father D. J. Finn, S. J., noted Hong Kong fossiliser among ruins, dealt entertainingly with a deep subject yesterday when he endeavoured to lift the veil to members of the Rotary Club of the mystery behind the very early occupation of Hong Kong.

Father Finn produced several ancient scraps of metal discovered in Hong Kong and from them deduced the type of people who once inhabited the locality.

WHAT RUINS REVEAL

Among the guests at the tiffin was Rotarian John H. Ehrhardt of Canton who said that the Canton Rotary Club intended to change its tiffin day from Tuesday to Wednesday so that members in the two ports would have a better opportunity of meeting at tiffin.

Other guests welcomed were Mr. W. Schofield, Hong Kong's chief magistrate, and Mr. L. Burridge, of Perth, Western Australia.

The President (Mr. W. N. Thomas) announced that because next Tuesday was the King's Birthday and a public holiday, the meeting next week would not be held. Members would reassemble on June 30.

In introducing Father Finn Mr. Tam said he was one of those uncanny individuals who could pick up a stray piece of earthenware and tell not only whether it was pot or pan, in its previous existence, but the nature and characteristics of the users of that pot or pan and possibly the flora and fauna of the locality.

Father Finn apologised for entitling his address "A Shady Past," as it may have kept some people from attending the tiffin. His profession however kept him from speaking about personal shady pasts—either his own or other people's—and the shady past he intended speaking of was in reality a roaming in the gloaming. It was a gloaming, he said, because so little was known of what lay behind and because it encouraged imagination and guesswork.

"My idea," he said, "is to show you how much we are in the gloaming in the shady past, how far we have gone and how much farther there is to go."

Father Finn then gave members a lesson in deduction by telling what had been learned about the earliest occupiers of Hong Kong from scraps of metal and pottery found in the vicinity.

"This is a house," he said, holding up a small piece of mud. "On it is the impression of pieces of rattan or bamboo laid at right angles as if it had been plastered over rattan basketwork. The mud is clearly not pottery—it was not baked in an oven but hardened by the sun—and as we have found similar pieces in four different sites, we build up the figure of a matshed and know that the locality was a dwelling site and not a grave site."

WOMEN PRESENT

Father Finn then went on to prove the characteristics of the people who occupied the matsheds. The finding of a whorl off an ancient spinning wheel was proof that women occupied the site and stone axe heads and arrow heads indicated the presence of men.

The men were not necessarily fighting men for the weapons were probably used for shooting and killing animals for food.

Comparatively delicate stone and bronze workings indicated that the inhabitants were skilful and a miniature axe head too small for a weapon was proof of sophistication as it was obviously used as an ornament.

"The finding in the same vicinity of a very crudely shaped stone axe head presents a puzzle," continued Father Finn. "How are we to reconcile it with the other more finely worked things?"

One solution is that a more primitive people were living as serfs with the other people and used the earliest forms of implements."

TREASURE TROVE

That these people had money was obvious from a number of varied articles unearthed, went on Father Finn. The collection, comprising a bronze axe, a stone axe and 12 rings, was found together, indicating that they were perhaps the personal treasure of a resident and had been secreted.

The date of this early occupation was not hard to fix, declared Father Finn. He produced several scraps of metal which he said were typical Chinese weapons of a date not later than 300 B.C. and it was possible that the things found dated about 600 B.C.

In China, modernists thought, the shades began to lift about 1,500 B.C., the mouth of the Yangtze could be traced back to about 600 B.C. but nothing much was known about Canton earlier than 300 B.C.

Father Finn concluded by appealing to listeners not to touch any obvious ancient finds should they come across them but to notify the authorities as really important evidence might be lost.

VOYAGE OF THANKS

In moving a vote of thanks Rotarian Henry Ching said the privilege might have been left in more able hands as his knowledge of ancient history, like many others, began about 55 B.C. and finished with the South Sea Bubble. Many people, too, found it too hard to keep abreast of modern history without troubling much about the past.

Father Finn's address on "A Shady Past" deserved a much bigger audience said Rotarian Ching for all admired his profound knowledge and command of his subject and it seemed hard to imagine that one small head could have carried so much.

He was staggered at Father Finn's powers of deduction but it all sounded very convincing and doubtless was correct. He felt sure that all had appreciated the talk and felt satisfied that Father Finn was interesting himself in Hong Kong's early history and preserving so much that might be lost. (Applause.)

NORTH CHINA SMUGGLING

No Great Effect On British Goods

London, June 13.

Questioned in the House of Commons to-day by Mr. Adrian Charles Moring, Conservative, who wanted information about the injurious effect upon British trade in Shanghai, Hankow and the Yangtze Valley due to competition from goods smuggled into North China through East Hopei, a Government spokesman replied no great harm had been done.

Captain D. Euan Wallace, speaking for the Government, said a telegraphic report had been received from the British Commercial Counselor at Shanghai comparing the Chinese Customs figures for the first four months of 1936 with the corresponding figures of 1935.

Generally speaking, he said, the report indicated the direct effect of smuggling on British trade had not been substantial up to the present, because the goods smuggled were generally not of a type usually obtained from Britain.

The position was being closely watched, nevertheless, he added.

CAREFUL DRIVING

The comparatively small diminution which, until now, has taken place in the numbers of accidents on the roads suggests that the true cause of most of the accidents has not yet been found. That impression is likely to be confirmed by a journey of reasonable length through any part of the country. He will be a fortunate motorist who does not, on such a journey, witness any mishap or does not himself encounter risk in one form or another. The natural tendency is to find explanations in the weakness or stupidity of human nature, and the highly censorious attitude now everywhere being adopted towards motorists shows that this tendency is widely prevalent. Upon the motorist who makes a mistake there lies, too often, the burden of proof that he is not a criminal. There is little to show that this "wholesome fear" has achieved any of the objects of those who are eager still further to intensify it. A presumption, on the contrary, exists that the anxiety which must now attend every driver is harmful to the cause of safety. The truth is that, in present circumstances, motoring is a skilled occupation demanding for its efficient accomplishment a degree of training which very few motor-drivers possess or are ever likely to possess. There are two ways, and only two, in which such a difficulty can be resolved. Licences to drive can be refused to all except professional drivers, or the existing circumstances can be changed. The second alternative alone is practicable. If road accidents are to be prevented, road conditions must be such that an amateur driver is at no considerable disadvantage as compared with a professional driver.

Disadvantage at present resides in faulty training of eye and hand. The amateur driver is liable to misjudge the speed of vehicles and especially of approaching vehicles. He takes risks, in consequence, which no professional driver would take. Nor does he possess the high degree of technical skill necessary to the rectification of error. Again he lacks the body of knowledge which enables a professional driver to "see round a corner" and so avoid a smash. Such knowledge will never be possessed by those who use their cars only during week-ends in summer. The duty of the authorities is to eliminate so far as possible the need for any skilled judgment. It can be said with some degree of confidence that the most effective step to this end would be the doubling of roads throughout the country. One-way roads remove, immediately, the handicap of lack of experience in "passing." Again, separate tracks for cyclists and pedestrians are urgently necessary because the emergencies which must arise until such tracks are provided can be met only by persons possessed of special competence. Finally cross-roads in every part of the country must be made safe by means either of roundabouts or of traffic lights. At present, as is shown in an admirable and useful book entitled "Law for the Private Motorist," which has recently been

FIRST WOMAN FLIER ON DORADO

'Plane Arrives With Heaviest Load Yet

ONE-DAY JOURNEY

First woman to fly the Imperial Airways service from Penang to Hong Kong, Mrs. Tan Kim-sui, arrived yesterday on the R. M. A. Dorado which made another one-day flight.

Mrs. Tan, a vivacious and pretty young woman, was enthusiastic over the trip and said she had enjoyed every minute of it. She and her husband, who made the trip with her, are well known 'Straits Settlements' Chinese, who decided to fly to Hong Kong on a novel holiday. They are staying with friends at Kowloon Tong.

Yesterday's flight of the Dorado was even more creditable than that of a fortnight ago when she made her first one-day hop from Penang to Hong Kong.

Although burdened yesterday with a much heavier load of mail and freight and carry two passengers, the Dorado took only 10 minutes longer to make the trip than a fortnight ago when she carried no passengers.

RECORD MAIL

Her schedule yesterday was: Left Penang 4.40 a.m. Arrived Saigon (805 miles) 9.22 a.m. Left Saigon 10.04 arrived Tourane (385 miles) 1.1 p.m. Left Tourane 1.32 p.m. arrived Hong Kong (810 miles) 5.50 p.m.

The total weight carried yesterday by the Dorado was the heaviest yet taken. Never before has she taken more than one passenger, freight reached the record weight of 53 kilos (116.5 lbs) and the mail weighed 303.52 lbs (137.966 kilos).

This is the heaviest mail yet carried by the Dorado.

COINS FOR MINT

The heavy freight was due mainly to a case containing 10,000 sample coins which had been flown from Europe by the K.L.M. line to Penang and consigned to the Chinese mint at Shanghai. They will be forwarded to Shanghai by steamer.

The trip was also an unusual one as it was the first since the inauguration of the service that the original crew was altered.

Mr. R. N. Price accompanied Capt. J. H. Lock as second pilot in place of Mr. A. C. Thomas who has been second pilot on all previous trips. He has been transferred to command of the R.M.A. Delphinus which is due to take the Hong Kong-Penang service shortly and alternate with the Dorado.

GIRL RUN OVER BY TRAIN

Sequel To Wedding Celebrations

(Hong Kong Daily Press Special)

Warsaw, June 16.

A tragic sequel to wedding celebrations ended in the death of a 12-year-old girl living in a village at the rear of Warsaw. The girl and her younger brother had been allowed to stay up all night partaking in the festivities. Though worn out for want of sleep they had to start at dawn tending the cows in the meadows. Afraid of falling asleep and neglecting their duties they lay down on the railway line believing that fear of being run over would keep them awake. Both were, however, soon fast asleep. When the train came along the boy woke up just in time to spring to safety, but the girl was caught by the train and cut to pieces.

published, every driver seems to be expected to possess a degree of competence which if exercised will prevent him from driving carelessly or dangerously. Unhappily real danger lies, as a rule, within the limits of emergency, and none but the professional can be either careful or safe within these limits. It is the possibility of emergency which must be prevented if amateurs are to remain free to make use of the highways.

TOURIST TROPHY RACE

HOLDER DISQUALIFIED

London, June 15.

The Junior International Tourist Trophy Race run to-day over the 254 miles mountain course in Isle of Man was won by F. L. Frith driving a Norton in 3 hrs. 17 mins. 8 secs. at an average speed of 80.14 m.p.h. J. H. White on another Norton was second with an average speed of 77.97 m.p.h. and E. A. Mellors on a Velocette came in third at an average of 77.91 m.p.h.

James Guthrie winner for the last two years was disqualified after leading for four laps and broke his own lap record of 80.11 m.p.h. which was also beaten by Frith who set up a new lap record of 81.54 m.p.h. Frith's winning total time is a record, breaking Guthrie's previous record by 2 mins. 28 secs.

APPEAL UPHOLD

London, June 16.

The appeal of J. Guthrie who was disqualified by the steward of the Junior Tourist Trophy Race in the Isle of Man was considered last night and was upheld. It was decided that the prize attaching to second place, which in all probability Guthrie would have occupied if he had not been flagged off, should be granted.

Guthrie's disqualification arose owing to the fact that in response to his request a marshal assisted to push his machine on to the road after he had repaired a broken chain. Official placings in the race are not disturbed by the steward's decision, Frith on a Norton being first, White on a Norton second, and Mellors on a Velocette third.

LITTLE ENTENTE DISRUPTION?

FRANCE IMPATIENT AT RUMOURS

YUGOSLAVIA'S VACILLATION

('Hong Kong Daily Press' Special)

Budapest, June 16.

Discussions of the general staffs of the Little Entente began on Monday in Bucharest. In this connection, the Hungarian paper "Uj Nemzet," usually well-informed on Balkan questions, says that diplomatic circles think it possible that this will be the last meeting of the Little Entente where Yugoslavia will take part.

The paper continues that France is already impatient at the perpetual rumours of a disruption of the Little Entente, and now desires to bring matters to an end by making a definite change in the composition of the Little Entente whose political and military value has been diminished by the vacillatory attitude of Yugoslavia.

FEAR OF ATTACK

Bucharest, June 15.

The Chiefs of Staffs of the Little Entente powers began a series of important talks to-day, as a result of the meeting here last week of M. Edouard Benes, new President of Czechoslovakia, Prince Paul, Regent of Yugoslavia, and King Carol of Rumania.

The conversations are understood to be to consider co-ordinating and reorganising the defences of the three countries in view of the possibility of the extensive re-arming of Hungary and the restoration of the Hapsburg family in Austria and Hungary.

The Little Entente is also concerned with the probability of a German attack on Czechoslovakia.

Whereas under the monarchy the recruits had to appear naked, the Republic requires them to line up in shorts. Newspapers stated that about 70 per cent. proved suitable for the Army.

FERRY BOAT MISHAP

Forty Persons Drowned

(Hong Kong Daily Press Special)

Budapest, June 16.

About 40 persons were drowned at Ujpest near here when a ferry boat, with 60 employees, of the Municipal Tramways Company returning from a banquet on the Danube Island turned over in mid-river. Only 20 passengers were saved. Six bodies have been recovered.

Nineteen persons, all soldiers, were killed and twenty others were injured, several seriously, when the train in which they were travelling on the Tatung-Puchow railway jumped the tracks near Chiehshu station, according to a telegram received in Taiyuan on Wednesday. The railway authorities have sent representatives to investigate the accident.

The Chinese Sugar Trade Association has decided to form a "smuggled sugar search committee." According to Mr. Cheng Tse-nan, an executive member, no smuggled sugar has been transported to Shanghai since the voluntary adoption by sugar merchants of preventive measures. About 6,000 bales of smuggled sugar, discovered by the Customs at Pengpu, Nanking and Chinkiang, have been sent to Shanghai for public auction.

The American Consulate-General at Shanghai will appreciate the receipt of information as to the present whereabouts of Mr. Ellisworth Leroy Hensel.

Mr. H. O. Tong, Superintendent of Customs in Shanghai, who was sent to Canton by Dr. H. H. Kung to investigate the smuggling situation in the south, will return here on June 14.

TWO DEMANDS BY SOUTHWEST

Withdrawal Of Troops
AnnouncedNANKING MOVE STILL RAISES SUSPICIONPersistent Rumours Of Attack On Kwangsi

Canton, June 16.

The Southwest authorities this afternoon telegraphed Nanking officially announcing the withdrawal of the forces back to Kwangtung and Kwangsi and urging the Central Government to resist Japanese aggression, otherwise internal strife is inevitable sooner or later as the people are gradually realising that resistance is the only way to save the country.

The message makes two specific new demands: firstly, safeguarding patriotic speech which is accomplished by amending the present press censorship regulations which are shackling the people's freedom of speech; and secondly, the emancipation of the people's organisation which is accomplished by lifting the present restrictions on the people's freedom to organise societies and hold meetings.

STRONG REPLY TO JAPAN

The telegram concludes with a declaration that in facing the increased Japanese aggression the Government alone cannot cope with the crisis and resist the invaders but must develop a spirit of nationalism to enable an effective struggle for national existence.

The message expresses disappointment and surprise at the failure of the Central Government's telegram of June 11 which urged the Central Executive Committee to order the Government to discontinue the advance of troops southwards and at the same time take the initiative in anti-Japanese resistance.

The telegram generally refutes the alleged ulterior motives behind the recent advance of the Southwest's forces in Hunan, declaring that Canton despatched three divisions to Hunan en route to the North in 1933 when Sino-Japanese fighting was taking place at the Great Wall, but there was no reprimand then for the action. Hence the Central Government's objection this time is not understandable.

MISSIONARY'S REPORT

Hankow, June 16.

The missionary, Dr. P. F. Greene, from Changsha, interviewed by Reuter, states that last week was featured by two important conferences in General Ho Chien's headquarters at Changsha, and another at Hengchow. A minor clash occurred between Hengchow and Chenchow, but apart from this there have been no hostilities.

The informant added that business circles in Changsha are no longer anxious. Many women missionaries have been called in by the British consul from the outlying districts and are now returning to the station.

SOUTHWEST PRECAUTIONS

Canton, June 16.

Although the Southerners have withdrawn to the borders the situation at the front appears to be still rather threatening as the Central Government troops and those of the Southwest are separated only by a small distance.

"It appears that the Southwest is now taking very careful precautions against possible attack from Nanking troops while delegates are negotiating a peaceful settlement."

The situation generally is regarded as still uncertain owing to persistent rumours that the Central Government continues to despatch troops to the South with the object of attacking Kwangsi.

Mr. Teng Ching-yang, a member of the Political Council, interviewed, stated that no decision had yet been made regarding participation in the Second Plenary Session at Nanking.

At present general attention is being shifted from the domestic situation to the Sino-Japanese position which is expected to be graver following a strong reply to the Japanese protest and flat refusal of the Kwangtung authorities to suppress the anti-Japanese propaganda and movement.

SOUTHWEST EMISSARY

Canton, June 16.

It is understood that preliminary negotiations with a view to effecting a rapprochement between Nanking and the Southwest are proceeding in Nanking with Dr. Feng Jui, Director of the Kwangtung Agriculture Bureau, representing the southern Government.

The Canton emissary is now presenting the viewpoint of the Southwest to the Nanking authorities.

At the same time it is understood that the Central Government is paving the way for negotiations, and if sufficient ground is made to ensure successful conclusion of conversations, Dr. Wang Chung-hui will fly to Canton to complete the agreement.

It is understood that among other things Dr. Feng Jui is discussing with the Central Government the Canton currency problem.

SETTLEMENT EFFORTS

Shanghai, June 16.

Negotiations for a peaceful settlement of the crisis are proceeding at Hengchow between the high officials of the Central Government and the Southern delegates.

In the meanwhile three Chinese gunboats have arrived at Changsha, while preparations are being made to remove the provincial capital to Changteh if necessary.

It is believed that the issue of peace or war hangs on a thin thread. Although all Kwangtung and some Kwangsi troops have been withdrawn to the border, the Central Government forces are still concentrating south of Hengchow and some Kwangsi divisions are entrenched between Yungchow and Kiyang.

In the meanwhile Dr. Feng Jui, Director of the Kwangtung Agriculture Bureau, has arrived in Nanking and is discussing a settlement between Nanking and Canton, especially in regard to the prospects of assistance for Kwangtung's currency difficulties.

NANNING DESPATCH

Canton, June 16.

An official despatch from Nanning reports that Kwangsi troops have further withdrawn to-day and now are all inside the province again.

The despatch adds that the Nanking troops are still advancing southwards on four routes with the object of attacking the Southwest.

Generals Pei Chung-hsi and Li Chung-ten have telegraphed Marshal Feng Yu-hsiang and Mr. Sun Fu urging them to use their influence to persuade the Central Government to turn the expedition northward in order to fight the Japanese.

GEN. CHIANG KAI SHEK

ANTI-JAPANESE
MOVEMENTCanton's Reply To ProtestSTRONG ATTITUDE ADOPTED

Canton, June 16.

A strong tone has been adopted in General Chen Chi-tang's reply through Dr. Kan Chia-hou, Foreign Commissioner, to the Japanese Consul General, Mr. Kawal, concerning the anti-Japanese movement in Kwangtung.

In reference to the Japanese request for adequate protection of Japanese lives and property, the note states that the Kwangtung authorities in accordance with international law and Sino-Japanese treaties shall accord full protection to Japanese residents and asks that the Japanese Consul General need not worry.

Referring to the Japanese demand for suppressing the anti-Japanese propaganda movement, the Chinese reply emphasises that the Kwangtung authorities cannot prohibit such movements because it represents manifestation of the people's will and is also a natural reaction to Japanese aggressive acts in Manchuria, Jehol, North China and Shanghai since the Mukden incident.

Dr. Kan Chia-hou adds: "In reference to your request for effective measures to suppress the anti-Japanese movement, I feel the only way is for Japan to change her aggressive attitude of the last five years which has aroused our people's hostile feeling. If this is done anti-Japanese propaganda and movement will automatically die down and Sino-Japanese relations will automatically become cordial."

Peking, June 16.

The Hopei-Chahar Council has ordered the chancellors of the universities in the two provinces to immediately dissolve all student organisations. This order is generally believed to be a sequel to the anti-Japanese demonstration of June 13 to which the Japanese military representative "drew the attention" of the Mayor.

DISCONTINUANCE OF SANCTIONSBritish Cabinet To Decide

London, June 16.

The Cabinet is believed to be agreed upon the principle of discontinuance of sanctions if Geneva decides upon that course, on the ground that sanctions have failed and their continuance will not serve any useful purpose.

Moreover, it is felt the European situation makes it desirable that the question of relations between Britain and Italy should be put on a new footing.

The final decision will be taken at a meeting of the Cabinet on Wednesday.

Prominent members of the Cabinet attended a meeting of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Cabinet this evening, which is understood to have considered the sanctions policy and also the question of a conference with the French Foreign Minister on Monday, with regard to Turkey's request for reformation of the Dardanelles to be approved. At this meeting the participation of Italy would be required, as she is a signatory to the treaty demilitarising the Straits.

Sir Samuel Hoare is said to be the principal British delegate to this conference.

Discontinuance of sanctions at the earliest possible moment was unanimously favoured by a score of speakers at a meeting of 70 or 80 members of the Conservative Private Members Committee in the House of Commons this evening.

The opinion was also expressed that the League of Nations Covenant should soon be revised, particularly with regard to its penal clauses, and that unlimited commitments should cease.

SPEAKERS AT DEBATE

Next Thursday's debate in the House of Commons on the Government's foreign policy with special reference to the question of sanctions will open with a speech by the Foreign Secretary, Mr. Anthony Eden, and the Prime Minister, Mr. Stanley Baldwin, will speak towards the close of the debate.

Opposition leaders will take part in the debate and it is understood that Mr. Lloyd George, who latterly has taken very little part in Parliamentary debates, will also speak.

LOANS RECOVER

London, June 16.

Although making no comment, the papers continue to draw attention to Chinese news.

The opening of negotiations between Nanking and Kwangsi creates a good impression in the city, confirming the previous conviction that there will be no civil war.

Chinese loans yesterday made a marked recovery and to-day they are steady with an upward trend. Chinese circles in London which have been never despondent believe that the problem will be ultimately settled by General Pai Chung-shi whose hostility to General Chiang Kai-shek is the chief difficulty in his going abroad.

Attention chiefly centres on smuggling in East Hopei, and much speculation results on Sir Frederick Leith-Ross's visit to Japan. The apparent readiness of the Japanese to discuss with him the Chinese situation, contrasted with the blank wall he met on his first visit, is generally regarded with hopefulness.

BRITISH TRADE
RETURNSImports Stand At High Level

London, June 16.

The high level of imports which show an increase on May of last year of £4,650,000, equal to 7.2 per cent., is the outstanding feature of the overseas trade returns for the past month. This increase in imports was almost equally divided between food, raw materials and manufactured goods.

The return also shows signs of improvement in the British export trade, especially in manufactured goods.

Although the increase for the five months of the current year is only £2,275,000 or 1.3 per cent., the increase last month alone was £1,189,000, equal to 3.3 per cent. In re-export trade the increase last month was equal to 1.3 per cent.

The biggest individual item in export of British manufactured goods shows an increase of £356,000 in woolen and worsted yarns and manufactures.

Tokyo, June 16.

Japan is not unwilling to co-operate with Great Britain in the development of China, Dr. Elchi Baba, Minister of Finance, told Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, British Economic Advisor, in an interview this afternoon. Because of the need to take into consideration the buying power of the Chinese people, especially the pocketbook of the farmer, Dr. Baba declared, he believed it would be more appropriate for Japan to invest in goods than in capital.

Concrete problems were not discussed at to-day's meeting, which was the third interview between Sir Frederick and high Japanese officials in as many days.

Sir Frederick emphasized the necessity of developing China's traffic system to encourage agriculture. (N.C.D.N.)

Basel, June 15.

The Negus, who, according to a message from Verrey, is contemplating to leave London on June 17 to take up residence on the Lake of Geneva, will have to apply for a special immigration permit with the Swiss Federal Council, says the paper "Basler Nachrichten," which points out that the Swiss Government must make its agreement to the Emperor's entry into Switzerland dependent on the receipt of satisfactory replies to the following questions:

Will Haile Selassie represent his country before the League of Nations, or is he merely coming as a political fugitive?

Does the Emperor intend to open a publicity campaign in Switzerland to regain his Throne?

The paper "Neue Zuercher Zeitung" recently intimated to the Negus, that although Switzerland felt profound sympathy with him, and the fate of Abyssinia, it could not risk incurring political complications through the Monarch's presence.

The Federal Council, it is stated, has so far received no application of immigration from the Negus.

DISCOVERY IN UGANDAQuartz Crystals Of Fine Quality

London, June 16.

The discovery within the British Empire of quartz crystal of sufficiently fine quality to be used for maintaining the frequency of radio transmitters is reported by the Imperial Institute. The new source of supply is in Uganda in a district where alluvial gold is being washed. Commercial tests are stated to have proved satisfactory. Hitherto Brazil and Madagascar have been the two chief sources of these crystals. Besides being used in normal radio transmitters, quartz crystals are in demand for apparatus required in depth sounding at sea, and in detecting the presence of rocks and icebergs and other dangers to shipping.

MISS YORKE GAINS SECOND FRENCH TITLE

Wins Mixed Doubles Final With Bernard: Polish Girl's Surprise Defeat

(BY A. WALLIS MYERS)

Auteuil, May 27. Miss A. M. Yorke won her second French title to-day when she and Marcel Bernard defeated E. Martin-Legay and Mme. Henrotin in the final of the mixed doubles. The score was 7-5, 6-3, 6-3.

Coming to Paris as an unofficial player at her own expense, Miss Yorke, with an unbeaten record in the international field, has earned honours fully justified by her steady hand and high heart. In both her finals, fate looked as if it might rob her of victory, but to-day, as in the final of the women's doubles, she played her best game in the vital third set.

Bernard was not in such fine form to-day as he was in the men's final yesterday; he looked to be reacting from the strain of that heroic battle. Some of his strokes were impolitic, and his judgment in calling to his partner to leave balls that did not sail out of court was at fault.

But he preserved his service aim intact for critical games, and it was on his delivery that the Anglo-French pair went out in the ninth game of the final set.

FRENCHMAN OUTWITTED

The first two sets had been desperately close affairs, with Miss Yorke often fencing with Martin-Legay for a winning opening, and one of the shrewdest tacticians in France not infrequently finding himself out-manoeuvred by the English girl.

In the second set, when Bernard dropped his service, the French pair advanced to 5-3, and it was Miss Yorke who saved two set balls in the next game. At 6-5 on Mme. Henrotin's service, Bernard and his partner were within a stroke of the match. There was a tense rally closed by a short lob from Miss Yorke and a smash from the ever-alert Legay. The reward of some really clever play by the French couple was the second set.

A less resolute pair might easily have crumpled after this disappointment. Bernard and Miss Yorke forgot their lapses, and by a spirited all-court attack, quickly compiled a 4-1 lead in the third set.

Miss Yorke's service returns were particularly sound, and though she got the main brunt of the attack from the other side, she parried every move quietly and efficiently. Two games were sacrificed before the end came, and Miss Yorke left to catch her aeroplane for England.

Mlle. JEDRZEJOWSKA BEATEN

In the women's singles there was a big surprise—the defeat of Mlle. Jedzejowska by that talented Spanish player, Countess de la Valdene, who under the name of Mlle. d'Alvarez, was for three successive years a finalist at Wimbledon.

The match was not down on the day's programme when the official list came out, and the competitors were advised only in the morning when it was discovered that there would probably be an hour's interval on the centre court, before the mixed doubles final, fixed for 4 o'clock, was due.

The little Polish champion would have preferred No. 2 court, but she accepted the situation with her usual gaiety and, indeed, appeared to be on the high road to a decisive victory when she had taken the first set at 6-2 and was leading 4-1 in the second.

Had she not hit a simple forehand drive on to the net tape she would have been 5-2, and I doubt, at that stage, whether Mrs. Moody herself would have caught her.

The tide began to turn when Countess de la Valdene's backhand drive, once the envy of every schoolgirl at Wimbledon, began to function with glorio regularity and when, to the great forehand punch of Poland, she used the famous d'Alvarez half-volley.

Then the rest of the match was purity of style and enterprise vindicated and the less orthodox stroke production of Mlle. Jedzejowska finding its limitations.

POLISH GIRL'S ADVANTAGE

The Spanish champion was never quite safe until the last stroke had been won. Her opponent was in full match training; her physical reserves were always the stronger; and after the fiercest rallies, when the Countess was leaning on her racket to regain her breath, one doubted whether she would last out an arduous third set.

Yet she came through the ordeal magnificently. Even when her lead of 4-1 began to melt, and she had sacrificed a chance of a 5-1 lead by a careless stroke, and then lost the seventh game from 40-15, she maintained the high, rich quality of her attack.

She played the eighth game for a 5-3 lead superbly, outpointing her opponent with cross drives that clipped the lines and brooked no return. In the ninth game she was 40-15—two match balls. Mlle. Jedzejowska then played two beautiful drop shots to save the match and went on to win the game.

I thought she might pull it off after all, for the Spaniard was nearly exhausted. But in the next game, when the Polish girl tried to repeat the coup, her opponent raced forward and hit winners with the firmest hand. She took the first three points against the service and was out from 15.

Nine years earlier, when she was more exuberant, she had lost the French championship at St. Cloud through hitting a ball that was sailing yards out of court. Her victory to-day delighted her many friends.

MISS NOEL'S PROGRESS

The Spanish champion's next opponent may well prove to be Miss Noel, who, unthreatened to-day, won her match in two love sets, and will now meet Mlle. Iribarne, No. 2 in France. She should survive this test if she plays her best scientific game.

Three British gains were registered in the men's singles. Perry and Austin won their third round matches in three sets, neither being ever in jeopardy, although Austin required an opening set of 16 games to tame the stubborn del Castillo, of Argentina.

The South American, a great runner, traded in cut drop shots and had a provocative service which kept very low. In the second and third sets Austin outclassed his man.

S. Bright and M. J. Henderson of the Kowloon Bowling Green Club defeated R. O. Read and G. H. Sheriff in the Open Pairs Championship on the Recreation Green by 24 shots to 16. The game was evenly contested with the winners given a rare fright in the last three heads. Until then they led Read and Sheriff by 22 shots to 10, the latter making a spectacular yet unavailing recovery.

match out of the fire after his adversary, with two sets in hand, had gained a winning lead in the third. Hector Fisher's strokes were smoother in execution than Hare's, but he did not possess the Englishman's indomitable spirit, nor did he keep his best service deliveries for the critical fifth set.

In to-day's thunder-laden atmosphere, Hare is entitled to every praise for his fine recovery against an experienced opponent.

Destremeau opened his Centre Court campaign with a conclusive victory over Van Den Eynden, of Holland. He could afford to let down in the third set, but the way in which he dealt with an adverse lead of 5-3 revealed his ability to raise his game under provocation.

This engaging recruit of France will now meet von Cramm in what should be a most fascinating match.

THE CHAMPIONSHIPS OF MIDDLESEX

MRS. M. R. KING BEATEN

London, May 28. There were two surprises in the third round of the women's singles in the Middlesex Championships, which were continued at Chiswick Park yesterday. In the morning Mrs. M. R. King's the British Wightman Cup player, was beaten by Miss P. O'Connell, of the Melbury L.T.C., and in the afternoon Miss Betty Nuthall was beaten by Miss J. Saunders.

Mrs. King struck Miss O'Connell on one of those days when nothing could go wrong. Against such a good player as Mrs. King it would have been useless for Miss O'Connell to venture to the net on anything except the best of drives. Such drives were forthcoming, more often to Mrs. King's backhand than forehand, and they were so hard and deep that Mrs. King was completely unable to make an effective lob.

Miss Nuthall, after a brilliant revival which suggested that she had really found her best form once more, had one of those unaccountable lapses which have so often filled her friends with despair. Miss Saunders, who is playing better than ever before in her life, thoroughly deserved her victory. Her confident driving and volleying prevailed over the rather cramped strokes of Miss Nuthall. Though Miss Nuthall was obviously below her best form it would have needed quite her best to have beaten Miss Saunders yesterday.

The results were—

GOLFER MAKES 23/- EACH SHOT

London, May 25. Alfred Padgham, the Ryder Cup golfer from Sundridge Park, Kent, yesterday won his fourth successive professional tournament, when he finished first in the Dunlop-Southport tournament.

He started this amazing run of success last autumn, when he took the £300 first prize in the "News of the World" tournament.

This year he started without great confidence. He was unfit, and only entered the finals of the "Daily Mail" tournament by holding a long putt on the last green in the Southern qualifying section.

He was still not well in the finals at Bramshott, but a record last round of 88 brought him victory and the £500 prize. His aggregate over four rounds was 284.

Three weeks later, he took a further £200 with his winning total of 280 in the "Silver King" tournament at Moor Park.

With his latest victory he has now won £1,315 in the last four events. His record in six weeks this year is £1,015, for which he has played 846 shots in twelve rounds, giving him the brilliant average of 70 per round.

That means he has made about 23s. a shot.

Such a "hat trick" in professional golf is without parallel. Padgham's three wins have been crowded into six weeks.

The question now is whether he can keep at it until the Open Championship in June.

It is his turn to win it, for in 1934 he was third, and last year was runner-up to Alfred Perry.

THE SILVER TASSIE

PREPARING FOR THE CHAMPIONSHIP

A second round of 68 and a record aggregate of 140, gave J. Ferrier (Australia) a win in the Silver Tassie, R. S. Walker (Aberdeen) finishing second with 144. Ferrier's aggregate was one stroke better than that of C. J. Tolley in 1925.

Many of the British amateur championship competitors, who will be at St. Andrews next week, spent yesterday on the Glenegles course where the annual 36-holes stroke competition for the Silver Tassie was decided over the King's and Queen's courses. At the end of the first round played in fine but cool weather, there was a tie for the lead on both courses, W. Murray (Dunfermline) and S. MacDonald (Ersine) sharing first place with 73 on the Queen's course, perhaps the easier of the two, while J. Ferrier, the Australian champion, Francis and J. Meacham (Scotsraigs), were level with 72 on the King's.

All three played par golf, driving a long and straight ball, while saving strokes on the greens. A. D. Locke (South Africa), whose championship successes in the Union last year led to his challenge for the British title, played his first round on the King's Course and finished in 78. So far as driving and second shots were concerned, his play was sound, but on the putting green he was much below form. Seven times he took three putts, and there were no fewer than forty putts in his round.

R. Sweeney, who won with an aggregate of 142 last year, seemed to have lost his grip of the trophy when finishing in 79 on the King's Course, the last three holes, which cost him seventeen strokes, ending an indifferent display.

R. S. Walker (Desside), who won the big Scottish Open Tournament a few weeks ago, was well placed, with a round of 73 on King's Course, J. McCredie (Mortonhall) also having that score, while G. A. Hill (Sandy Lodge), and Brig-Gen. A. C. Critchley (Prince's), were in close attendance with 74 each.

R. B. Stevenson (Cawder), C. R. Chrenander (West Hill), and A. Paton, Jun. (Largs), each with 74, followed the leaders on Queen's Course, where R. W. Hartley (R. and A.) and E. M. Prain (R. and A.) were among the 75s.

J. Ferrier (Australia), 72, 88-140; R. S. Walker (Aberdeen), 73, 71, and G. A. Hill (Sandy Lodge), 74, 70-144; J. E. Meacham (Scotsraigs), 72, 75-147; J. McCredie (Morton Hall), 73, 75, and J. de Forest (R. and A.), 77, 71-148.

SIANGTAN TO GET RAILWAY

Mission Premises Wanted For Headquarters

DECREASE IN NUMBER OF MISSIONARIES

Siangtan, Hu, May 18.
There has been more than the usual amount of rain for this time of the year in Hunan. The farmers are having a hard time to get their rice crops in. There was a good crop of the plants and in no place there seems to have been the necessity of a second planting. The prices of rice have gone up but seem to be sticking round 88 for the small p'cul in use here.
The Siang-Chien Railway is almost sure to pass through Siangtan. The engineer here in a recent interview said that it was about 95 per cent. settled, which ought to be a fine thing for this city and country. Some survey parties are at work in different sections of the Hunan area. The headquarters are still at Changsha for this Hunan end, but it is hoped within a month to move them to Siangtan.

DESIRABLE HEADQUARTERS

The engineers in charge here have been detailed to find proper headquarters for the work and some of the men have been looking with longing eyes at the Presbyterian Boys School compound, which is not now occupied by a school, but by private individuals.
They have even approached the foreigners asking them if there is any way to get this building for the headquarters. There is some chance that it may be used for this purpose.
The Presbyterian Mission held their annual mission meeting in this city recently, and all but two of the 27 missionaries on the field were present. They came from Changteh, Shangscha, Hengchow and Chenchow.

There has been a decrease in the foreign staff of the Mission in the last ten years of 50 per cent, which is about 25 per cent. more than for the general decrease of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. in all China. The decrease makes it almost impossible to carry on all the five stations of the Mission.

HARD HIT BY COMMUNISTS

There has been a decrease also in the last ten years of the Chinese staff of about 50 per cent. This does not mean such a great lack as at first appears, for Hunan was hard hit by the Communist regime of 1926-27 when all the schools were closed and most of them have not reopened. The Church workers have not been decreased so much. There has been an increase in the amount of self support, and a 50 per cent. increase in the number of ordained Chinese.
There has also been an increase in the amount per member con-

THE ONLY WAY TO HELP CHINA'S BETTERMENT

Financial Assistance To Nanking Government

SIR F. LEITH-ROSS EXPLAINS TO GEN. ISOGAI

Tokyo, June 9.

Continuing his conversations with leading officials of the Japanese Government, Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, Chief Economic Adviser to the British Government, this afternoon exchanged views on the situation in China with Mr. Hachiro Arita, Foreign Minister. Prior to the meeting, Mr. Arita sought the views of the Premier.

Soon after his arrival here yesterday, Sir Frederick met Major-General Rensuke Isogai, Director of the War Ministry's Military Affairs Bureau and formerly Military Attaché to the Japanese Embassy in China. During the ensuing exchange of views on the Chinese situation, Sir Frederick, Domel learned from authoritative sources, assured Gen. Isogai that his visit to Japan and a stay of nine months in China had enabled him to see Japan's position in East Asia and the actual conditions in China in a new light.

CERTAIN DEFECTS

While admitting certain defects and weaknesses of the Nanking Government, Sir Frederick expressed his opinion that the only way to contribute to China's rehabilitation would be to give financial assistance to the Nanking administration, which, he pointed out, is composed of able statesmen.

Gen. Isogai admitted the necessity of rendering financial and economic assistance to China, but reminded Sir Frederick that the question has not only a financial but an important political significance from Japan's point of view, which, he emphasized, were unlike those of Great Britain and the United States. He also referred to the past bitter experiences of Japan in giving financial assistance to China, which ultimately assumed political significance. Japan is not in a position to give financial aid to the Central Government unconditionally unless and until a political understanding is reached between Japan and China, whereby the Nanking Government would give a pledge to contribute to the stability of East Asia in conjunction with Japan.

Japan, Gen. Isogai concluded, is ready to give all possible assistance to China when the Nanking Government changes its past attitude and enters into political co-operation with Japan.

MR. ARITA INTERVIEWED

Questions ranging from China's currency problems to the smuggling situation were discussed by Sir Frederick Leith-Ross and Mr. Hachiro Arita, Minister for Foreign Affairs, at a two-hour interview at the Foreign Office this afternoon. The meeting was attended by Sir Robert H. Clive, British Ambassador to Japan, and Mr. Kensuke Horinouchi, Vice-Minister for Foreign Affairs.

"I believe your visit to engage in conversations with our official and business circles on the eve of your return to England after completing your investigation of China is most appropriate as a means to promote a better understanding between Japan and Britain," Mr. Arita said.

Sir Frederick expressed regret that the purpose of his mission to China appeared to have been misunderstood in Japan. "My activities," he said, "have been directed towards the support of the Church. Two hundred and fifty two have been added on profession of faith in the year."

The present crisis in China has seriously affected the youth of Hunan, as well as all China. They are deeply dissatisfied with the situation. They are, as never before, trying to find the meaning of life. Most of them see little hope for China but would like to have something give them a reason for existence. If there is to be nothing but pain, hatred and exploitation, why live? Their former antagonism to Christianity has gone, but they want to know seriously what has Christianity to contribute to a situation like the one in China now. It is a challenging opportunity.

ties in China," the British expert is understood to have continued, "were not solely to promote British interests. I went there with the belief that an increase in the purchasing power of the people, by bringing about China's economic recovery, would benefit Japan, the United States, and other countries economically interested in China."

Mr. Arita disagreed with Sir Frederick on the latter's confidence regarding the future of China's managed currency. The British expert was of the opinion that China would be able to maintain the present system without outside aid.

Mr. Arita declared that it would be necessary to make extensive inquiries as to whether or not foreign investments in Chinese railways were economically secure. "Financial assistance to China must be preceded by internal and external political stability, especially with regard to Japan," he remarked. "I believe that internal conditions in China are conducive to smuggling. I have heard that large scale smuggling is going on not only in North China but in South China as well. What does the British Government think of that?"

Sir Frederick replied:—"I believe you are speaking of Canton. There is a definite understanding with the Nanking Government regarding the Cantonese Customs tariff."

DIFFERENT POLICIES

Sir Frederick was the guest of the Japan Economic Federation at a dinner last night, preceded by an informal exchange of views on Chinese problems. Mr. Manzo Kishida, managing director of the Mitsubishi Goshi Kaisha, voiced Japan's interest in the economic prosperity and political stability of China. Noting the seeming differences in the China policies of Japan and Great Britain, he emphasized that, while the latter primarily is interested in the economic aspects of the situation, Japan's welfare and national existence have a vital relation to the maintenance of order in China. Urging Anglo-Japanese co-operation in China's economic recovery, Mr. Kishida said that things benefiting China would be advantageous to both Japan and Great Britain.

Replying, Sir Frederick said his sole task was to secure China's economic stability, which, in his opinion, would benefit Japan. His task would be understood in the future, when China achieved stability. He also expressed a hope for co-operation between Japan and Great Britain in the development of China. (N.C.D.N.)

AUSTRALIA'S INTERNAL AIR SERVICES

Reorganization Necessary: Smaller Machines

Melbourne, June 9.

Reorganization of Australia's internal air services is necessary as a result of the Australia Government's intention to accept the British Government's plan for a bi-weekly flying-boat service on the Singapore-Port Darwin section of the England-Australia route.

The service, it is stated, will be put into operation in August, 1937, and the flying-boats will use a new route, from Port Darwin to Bowen over the Gulf of Carpentaria. The Cookamundra-Chaleville section probably will be abolished and smaller machines used between Brisbane and Port Darwin. (N.C.D.N.)

IMPROVED ROADS IN FUKIEN

Good Bus Service Between Foochow And Amoy

ENFORCED MILITARY TRAINING

Putien, Fu, May 22.

Putien is a walled city with a population of some 40,000 people. It is ten miles from the coast, and is about halfway between Foochow and Amoy. After an absence of three years, a correspondent has now returned to Putien, and is able to note the changes which have taken place during that period.

The greatest improvement is in communications. A road now links us with Foochow and with Amoy. What is more, there is a regular bus service between these two places which leave at appointed times. Recently one travelled in the newest type of bus put on these roads. It is roomy, fitted with comfortable upholstered seats, and has a compartment at the back for luggage. It is propelled by a Diesel engine using crude oil and is therefore more economical than those run with petrol engines. The journey to Foochow takes less than four hours. Formerly it took at least two days.

These buses leave in all weather. Three years ago only dilapidated Fords were on the roads and a wet day put them out of business, the mud being too deep. But now greater attention has been paid to the roads, and the foundations are at least solid, even if the surface is a bit rough.

TROOPS RESCUE RANDIT VICTIMS

About two months ago a bus was held up by bandits between Putien and Foochow and all the passengers were carried off into the hills. The Government troops got to work, however, and after five or six weeks rounded up the bandits and liberated their captives. It is vitally important that these roads should be kept open and the Government may be given the credit for taking energetic steps to keep them open.

Not only passengers, but goods and mail also are transported regularly along the roads. This means a great saving of time. Bridges too have received attention. Concrete arches have replaced the flimsy structures of a few years ago, which made a trip by car anything but a joy ride. Altogether the change in communications is the most noticeable alteration after several years' absence. There have been more changes in the last five years than in the preceding 500.

Another significant change is the beginning of a modified form of conscription, which expects each family to produce one able-bodied man for military training. These conscripts live at home, but have to turn out for military drill each evening or afternoon for three months. The villages near the city have also to produce their quota. They turn out at the sound of a gong which is beaten in the main streets. Whether this happens over the whole district, the correspondent is unable to say.

There are still a few bandits in the district. About a fortnight ago a group of soldiers stationed at a village between here and the next city of Sienyu were surrounded by bandits while they were having breakfast and their nine rifles were taken away. The sentry who was on guard at the time was brought into St. Luke's Hospital here with eight bullet holes in the body.

When enquiries were made it transpired that the bandits had sheltered in an adjacent village for the night, and the soldiers, being infuriated, dragged off thirty of the villagers as well as the headman to the local yamen, on the charge of harbouring bandits and not giving notice of their presence.

In the common belief of the people there is little change to report. During the past week great idol processions were held in the city in honour of a local goddess, the patron of sailors. Her image was brought out of her temple in the city and with a great following was paraded in the city. Thousands of people came to see the show, and it is said that the city merchants sponsored the procession, which greatly increased their business.

The attraction was not so much the 'idol' as the tableaux which preceded it in the procession. These consisted of several girls, dressed in the silk robes of ancient times, and seated in scenic groves or gardens. (N.C.D.N.)

REFORM OF CHINA'S JUDICIAL SYSTEM

TOO RAPID FOR ALL THE COUNTRY TO KEEP PACE

Shanghai, June 10.

A general review of the progress achieved by the Chinese Government in reforming the judicial system was given by Mr. Yang Peng, the newly-appointed President of the Third Branch of the Kiangsu Provincial High Court, in an address at the Soochow University Law School. The Government, Mr. Yang said, had spared no efforts in reforming the national judicial system. The most up-to-date principles of jurisprudence had been adopted and incorporated in the national codes. Owing to the extreme rapidity with which the reforms had been instituted, however, it had not been possible to keep the same pace in all parts of the country.

For example, side by side with modern courts, there were still many districts where the District Magistrates were delegated with concurrent judicial powers. These magistrates often were not well versed in law, so their decisions sometimes were arbitrary and not based strictly on law. In order to rectify this situation, the Judicial Yuan had decided to establish District Judicial Bureaux in districts where no regular courts were established and competent judges would be appointed to deal with litigation in these districts.

Mr. Yang deplored the fact that the salaries of the judges in remote provinces and outlying regions still were altogether too low. Though the judges in these districts did not complain and were discharging their duties faithfully and with competence, the Government should, however, increase their remuneration as far as possible in conformity with the resolution adopted by the National Judicial Conference last year. MR. C. HARPUR LEAVING S.M.C.

After 34 Years' Service

Shanghai, June 11.
After 34 years in the service of the Shanghai Municipal Council, Mr. C. Harpur, O.B.E., Commissioner of Public Works, will retire on Sunday and will sail from Shanghai the same day.
Mr. Harpur was appointed to the Municipal Service in London in July, 1902, having been selected for a post in the then Municipal Engineer's office by the late Mr. Gabriel James Morrison, M. Inst. C. E. In 1906 Mr. Harpur was made Chief Engineering Assistant and in 1909 consequent upon the retirement of Mr. Charles Mayne and the promotion of Mr. C. H. Godfrey to the chief post, Mr. Harpur followed in Mr. Godfrey's footsteps as Deputy. Although this change made Mr. Harpur's work more of an administrative nature, he still took a close interest in the engineering work of the Department as well as the Land Office work. (N.C.D.N.)

Greeted By Ministers

(Hong Kong Daily Press' Special)
Sofia, June 15.
Dr. Schacht, President of the German Reichsbank and German Minister of Economics, arrived here on Monday noon and was greeted on the aerodrome by the Bulgarian Finance Minister Gunneff, Trade Minister Welleff, Agriculture Minister Professor Atanasoff, the Governor and Vice-Governor of the Bulgarian National Bank, and many other important officials.
Immediately upon arriving in the capital, Dr. Schacht made his way to the Royal Palace in order to sign his name in the Visitor's Book. In a statement to the Press Dr. Schacht said that he had come to Sofia as the guest of the Governor of the National Bank of Bulgaria in order to repay many visits which the latter had paid to Berlin. Dr. Schacht said that he was glad to visit Bulgaria again after 20 years, since in addition to the close commercial relationship, Germany and Bulgaria had much in common and were bound together by ties of friendship, which it was a pleasure to be able to assist in strengthening. INVENTOR SHOT ON LAWN

Two Bullets Through The Head

East Orange, N.J., June 15.
Mr. Daniel McFarlan Moore, famous American inventor and former associate of the late Mr. Thomas Edison, was shot to death on the lawn in front of his own home to-day.
His body was found sprawled, two bullets through his head, apparently fired at close range.
A neighbour came forward and told the police that he had heard Mr. Moore's and another man's voice raised in heated argument before the shots were fired.
Police are baffled. While they have an obviously clear case of murder, a single footprint is their only clue. (Reuter)

PACIFICATION OF ABYSSINIA

Graziani Satisfied

(Hong Kong Daily Press' Special)
Addis Ababa, June 15.
Expressing his satisfaction with the development of the situation in Abyssinia, the new Viceroy, Marshal Graziani stated at a reception to pressmen that the country was rapidly becoming used to the new rulers, when one considered the slow progress of pacification in general. The pacification of Abyssinia would, however, proceed far quicker than in other countries, since the Abyssinian population proved willing and it was easy to persuade them that the Italian rule offered better living conditions than that of their former Emperor. ROTARY PROPOSED FOR SOOCHOW

GIRLS SCHOOL GYMNASIUM FORMALLY OPENED

Soochow, Ku, June 6.
This city took a step forward on Wednesday of this week when Mr. George Fitch and Dr. Fong See brought a party here for the purpose of setting up a branch of the Rotary Club. A fine group came and after dinner the gentlemen discussed with interest the work of starting the Rotary in Soochow. The other members of the party went on a sightseeing tour.
It is understood that the local people plan to organize. It will do much to stimulate interest in civic affairs and at the same time afford an opportunity for fellowship with like organizations in other cities. Soochow has a group of younger men who are keenly interested in affairs and hope to bring this city into a wider sphere of influence. City waterworks are being discussed and the plans give hope of maturing. (N.C.D.N.)

ALGERIA IN REVOLT

Aftermath Of French Election Success

Algiers, June 15.
Disorders to-day reached such a pitch at Sidi bel Abbas that detachments of the French Foreign Legion, with police and mobile guards, were ordered to make several charges and forty-five persons were injured in the struggle.
The disturbances occurred during the celebrations of the Popular Front victory in the French elections, and for hours there was continuous street fighting between political adversaries, during which twenty shops were sacked.
Tear gas bombs were thrown into the Popular Front procession. Armed farmers repulsed strange agitators who invaded the estates at Sidi Moussa and attempted to induce the agriculturists to strike. (Reuter)

SUPPORT OF THE LEAGUE

Mr. MacDonald's Plea

London, June 15.
A striking plea for support of the League of Nations was made by Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, when addressing at Cardiff, Wales, to-night.
He declared that a world without a League would be a nightmare of uncertainty, a nightmare of arms, rattling steel and creaking of moving cannon.
The League, said Mr. MacDonald, embodied a sound idea, and any world peace must be one formed by the combination of the nations of the world. (Reuter)

KULING PREPARES FOR SUMMER

SWIMMING POOLS REPAIRED AND WATER PIPES LAID

Kuling, Kt., June 3.
Kuling is rapidly preparing for the Summer Season, many of the shops have re-opened in the Gap and large stocks of merchandise are daily coming up the hill. Quite a number of the shops have been modernized and several new buildings were erected on the main street, writes a correspondent.
Within the former Estate, several fine stone bridges have been built, one at the foot of Berlin Road and another larger one at Azalea Lane near the swimming pool, which replace the old wooden structures. Good work has been done on resurfacing the main roads, also more attention is now being paid to the pruning of the trees alongside the roads. The latter is under the supervision of Mr. Ching who is the Head of the Botanical Garden at Hanpoykow, beyond Kuling.
Pipe lines have been laid along England Avenue, Central Avenue and Virginia Hill, so that residents in that area can draw off pure water from the standpipes at convenient places. The water is brought from the Kuling hills and when analyzed recently was found to be very good, even safe for drinking, without boiling. The old swimming pool in Kuling is to be entirely renovated and put into proper order, with the addition of sun-bath slabs alongside the pool. Later on other improvements are to be added. The West Valley swimming pool is also to be put into proper order.

NEW STRUCTURE BUILT
We hear that the large building near the library is to be completed in July if possible for use this summer. By order of the Nanking Government, this building will accommodate about 1,200 men.
It is a re-inforced concrete building, with steel windows and will have modern sanitation and heating. The building will contain large lecture rooms, as well as accommodation for students and teachers.
It is probable that this building will be used all the year round, and not for summer use only; if so this will naturally bring a large number of people up here throughout the year.
During the past week quite a number of bungalows have been rented for government officials, so that is evident we may expect a number of conferences this summer.

The Kuling General Hospital is to be opened shortly, with Dr. Logan Roots in charge for the summer season. The Shanghai Commercial and Savings Bank have already opened their summer office, which is a great convenience to Kuling people.

London, June 15.
The Negus may shortly make his debut as a film star, according to press reports here to the effect that the unhappy Potentate has been offered the chief part in an Abyssinian film which a British concern is planning to shoot shortly. Haile Selassie deferred his decision till the end of the week. It is understood, but is expected to accept the offer for the sake of publicity which the film will give Abyssinia. The interior pictures will be shot in London, but some difficulty is experienced in finding a place for the exteriors. (Transocean News Service)

Look at Your Skin

Skin Specialists declare that 80 out of every 100 women suffer from skin outbreaks, spots, pimples, blotches, and 'muddy' complexions, and UNNECESSARILY!

Ugly complexion faults are woman's most common enemy. Few escape. Some resort to heavy powdering in an effort to hide them. Whilst others, due to consistent wrong treatment, cause the skin to become highly sensitive, coarse and blemished.
To make your skin clear and healthy, your complexion fresh and smooth, use Cuticura.
Cleanse the skin with Cuticura Soap twice a day. Its luxuriant and mildly antiseptic lather is soothing and softening; washes away pore-deep dirt which causes blackheads, enlarged pores and ugly complexion defects. And to rid the skin of pimples, skin outbreaks, rashes or irritations use Cuticura Ointment direct on the affected part before washing with the soap. Its antiseptic action kills germs, soothes and heals and quickly clears the skin.

Try Cuticura to-day. See how soon your skin improves, your complexion becomes smoother, more attractive than ever before.

Cuticura For Clear Healthy Skin

TO GET RID OF STOMACH TROUBLES

An English Doctor writes:—

"I find that 'Bisurated' Magnesia taken after most of my meals is the only thing that keeps me free from pain and discomfort, and I take it regularly. I often prescribe it for my patients, and have had very good results."

(Signed) Dr. H. G. M.A., M.R.C.S., L.R.C.P.

The English doctor is the most conservative medical man in the world, and when he only recommends but personally uses a remedy there can be no more convincing proof of its efficacy. This doctor is but one of many who constantly advise the use of 'Bisurated' Magnesia in all cases of indigestion. Most stomach trouble is caused by acidity, and the reason why 'Bisurated' Magnesia gives quick relief is that it instantly neutralizes excess acid and soothes, heals and strengthens the inflamed stomach lining. Nothing could be simpler, safer or surer. If you suffer with indigestion or stomach disorder of any kind put your faith in European science and make an end of your troubles by taking 'Bisurated' Magnesia after eating or whenever pain is felt.
